Russians Reply
To British Note
On Laos Peace

Answer To Truce Bid Not Disclosed

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union told Britain Sunday night what it was willing to do to bring about a peace settlement in Laos. But neither the Soviet nor the British disclosed what the Soviet reply said.

In a late night move, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko called British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts to the Foreign Ministry and handed him the Soviet reply to a British note of March 23.

This ended three weeks of Soviet delay on British proposals for a cease-fire in Laos, reactivation of an international observation commission, and summoning of a new 14-nation conference.

Gromyko and Sir Frank conferred shortly after they returned from Vnukovo Airport, where they welcomed Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist former premier of Laos whom the Russians still recognize as chief of the Laotian government.

It appeared that the Kremlin had been waiting for his arrival to clear their answer with him before handing it to the British.

A Foreign Office spokesman in London said it was unlikely the text of the Soviet reply would be released until Monday.

In the March 23 proposal, Britain with American backing asked that a cease-fire be called by Britain and the Soviet Union and that the cease-fire be verified by the International Control Commission composed of India, Canada and Poland before the 14-nation conference was summoned.

The Soviet Union has agreed in general with the idea of cease-fire but until now has not specifically endorsed the program proposed by Britain in all its sequences.

What stand the Soviet Union is now taking was not known.

Britain and the Soviet Union were the cochairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference which ended the Indochinese war.

Souvanna on arriving here thanked the Soviet Union for the "unrestricted aid Russia has been giving Laos and said he had come to Moscow seeking a final solution of the civil war.

The neutralist prince spoke at an airport welcoming ceremony.

He is expected in Washington later this week to drum up additional support for his plan to make Laos neutral in the cold war.

Three Men,
42 Horses
Die In FireFlames Level Two Stables At Trotting
Track In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Three stable hands and 42 horses died in a wind-whipped early morning fire which destroyed two stables at Maywood Park Trotting Track Sunday in west suburban Melrose Park.

Two persons were injured, and more than 70 horses were led to safety from the blazing and threatened barns.

Winds up to 20 miles an hour fanned flames through a tinder of straw bedding and hay. One of the 250-foot-long wooden stables was leveled before first firemen arrived.

Damage to the buildings and equipment was estimated at $100,000 by Nathan Allen, president of Maywood Park Trotting Association. There was no immediate estimate of the loss in animals. Some horsemen said it would exceed $100,000.

Cause Not Determined

Cause of the fire was not determined, but a track official said many of the stable hands were using small electric heaters to keep warm with last night when temperatures fell into the middle 20s. Allen said there was no evidence of foul play.

A crowd of nearly 5,000 had braved a snow and rainstorm Saturday night to witness the disassembled trotting program from the track's main stands, 100 yards from the fire scene. The stands were not endangered.

Tom Peterson, 19, a trotting driver from West Allis, Wis., said he had been awakened by yells from Patrick Callahan, 47, a stable hand from Morrison, Ill. Callahan was one of those who died.

Dying Horses Pound Stalls
"It sounded like fighting in the barns" as the trapped and dying horses pounded stalls attempting to escape, Peterson said.

The smoldering scene resembled a battlefield after a disastrous cavalry charge. Most of the dead animals lay in grisly array in two long rows. Most of them faced the same direction.

Personal belongings from the 12 stable hands who normally live in rooms adjacent to the horse stalls were scattered over an area 100 yards square, with twisted metal coats and the charred remains of trotting sulks.

Those who died in addition to Callahan were tentatively identified as Del N. Logue, 57, of Shelbyville, Ill., and Arthur Dean Vogel, 36, of Lincoln, Ill.

Pre-Midnight
Postmark Okay
On Tax Returns

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in many years, there is no shadow of doubt about the deadline for filing federal income tax returns. They must be postmarked by midnight Monday.

In the past, IRS has refused to say whether a pre-midnight postmark would be acceptable. It always hedged because the law says returns must be filed in time to reach IRS by the midnight deadline.

Since the mails are unpredictable, the new IRS commissioner, Mortimer M. Caplin, decided to issue a statement saying that—regardless of the law's language—a pre-midnight postmark will be O.K.

Normally the deadline would be April 15. It automatically is extended two days this year because that date fell on a weekend.

Castro Blames U.S. For Raids

Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro, speaking in Havana yesterday, blames President Kennedy and the U. S. government for the dawn air raids on three Cuban cities Saturday. Castro, speaking at a military funeral and massive demonstration to honor seven victims of the raid on Havana, termed the attacks Cuba's Pearl Harbor. He disputed reports that the pilots of the bombing planes defected from his own air force.

Kennedy Hears
Pastor Speak
On Segregation

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP)—President Kennedy heard his Middleburg pastor, with racial segregation in mind, ask his Roman Catholic parishioners Sunday to "pray in a very special way for any members of this community who are persecuted."

And in his church bulletin, the Rev. Albert F. Pereira, said in a discussion of desegregation which came to public evening places in Middleburg last weekend: "Jesus was a 'Samaritan-lover' which is equivalent to being a 'nigger-lover' today. He ate with 'publicans and sinners' the outcasts of the good society of the Jews. Jesus practiced what he preached—the universal love of all men, regardless."

"With the eyes of the world on the little town of Middleburg, we should be ashamed that we did not correct this injustice until we were pressured by outsiders, local custom notwithstanding. It is commendable that Middleburg's pride and its realization of its national importance has enabled its citizens to forego customs no longer based on facts and embarrassing to its role.

"To refuse to serve Negroes simply because of their race reminds us of the custom started by the Nazis, which we considered very reprehensible 25 years ago."

Kennedy attended noon Mass, accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Smith, his brother-in-law and sister. The latter are weekend guests at the Kennedy's rented estate, Glen Ora, outside Middleburg.

Whether the President read the church bulletin could not be determined. But he did hear the prayer, although Father Pereira said nothing in it of the desegregation problem. The pastor asked Kennedy and the other worshippers to pray also "that those who are doing the persecuting may be converted by the grace of God."

Negroes tested the new policy at the lunch counters a week ago without incident.

Midwest, East Hit
By Violent Weather

By The Associated Press

A mid-April storm packing a wintry punch of snow, plunging temperatures, violent winds and rain flogged a wide area from the Midwest to the Atlantic Coast Sunday.

Snow powered by strong winds spread from the Dakotas into Iowa and eastward through the Great Lakes area.

Chicago had four inches of snow at midafternoon. Scores of roads in outlying areas were virtually impassable because of drifting snow.

At least six persons were dead in weather-related accidents. Six others died in a fire which destroyed a cabin home in a remote area near Madisonville, Tenn. An explosion in a stove preceded the fire.

Two university students were fatally injured and two others hurt when their light plane, unable to land because of fog, crashed in a blinding snowstorm in Indiana. Three traffic deaths in Chicago were attributed to the weather.

Six Of Family
Perish In Fire

MADISONVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Three women and three children, all members of one family perished early Sunday in a fire which followed a kerosene explosion in a wood stove at their home.

Two men were burned, one seriously, in the fire which destroyed their cabin home in a remote mountainous area near here.

The victims were: Mrs. Webster (Lucy) Frye, 68; her daughter, Miss Ruth Frye, 36, a deaf-mute; Mrs. J. R. (Arlene) Watson, 26; and Mrs. Watson's three daughters—Barbara Ann, 8; Betty Ruth, 4; and Kathy, 9 months.

Mrs. Watson was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frye, and a sister of Ruth Frye.

Frye was hospitalized with serious burns, but sheriff's officers said Watson's burns were less severe.

The family lived about six miles east of here, near the North Carolina border.

Of Russian Roulette

FREDERICK (AP)—A 17-year-old Frederick youth was fatally wounded Sunday while playing Russian roulette with a brother and another companion in nearby New London.

State Police said witnesses told them the victim, Kenneth Eugene Warfield, picked up a .22-caliber revolver and said to the other two youths, "Watch this."

Police said he spun the cylinder, put the weapon to his head and pulled the trigger, discharging one of two bullets in the gun.

Today's Chuckle

Overheard at a party: "I'm glad I'm neurotic. It's the only normal thing about me."

Some 14 inches of snow fell through Sunday afternoon in the Duluth, Minn., area. Strong northerly winds coupled with the snow brought critical road conditions.

Iowa, North and South Dakota also reported strong winds and snow.

Powerful winds bowled over a 465 foot steel radio tower at Ash-tabula, Ohio, forcing the FM facilities of radio station WREO off the air. The station's AM operation was not affected.

Thirty mile-an-hour winds whipped New England, driving tides 2 to 3 feet above normal. Some flooding resulted in low areas along the coast.

A woman died in Connecticut when her car skidded on a rain-swept highway and smashed into a tree.

Heavy rain and winds of 55 m.p.h. raked Pittsburgh. Wind gusts of 58 m.p.h. battered Steubenville, Ohio, about 30 miles from Pittsburgh.

Across the Midwest, freezing temperatures prevailed as a cold wave from the Great Plains moved up the Ohio Valley. The mercury dropped to the 20s in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Ohio and Indiana.

Navy Secretary
Denies Cubans'
Bombing Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Navy John B. Connally said Sunday the United States had nothing to do with the bombing and rocket attacks on three Cuban air bases Saturday.

He said he hadn't checked out Cuban charges that some of the attacking planes had landed at the American base at Guantanamo, Cuba, "but I don't believe they are true."

Connally, in a television interview—ABC—Issues and Answers—said a Cuban slogan of "Down with Guantanamo" and said U. S. Marines and ships there "have made preparations for almost every contingency." But he added: "We are not really concerned about it."

Crash Of Plane Kills Two Of Four College Students

GREENCASTLE, Ind. (AP)—An empty fuel tank, a blinding snowstorm, and no place to land led to the deaths of two Purdue University students and critical injuries to another when their light plane plunged into the side of a wooded gully Saturday night.

A fourth companion forced his way out of the battered wreckage seven miles northeast of here, staggered around over the rugged snow-covered terrain about two hours, then dazedly followed a distant light to a "armhouse."

About 50 National Guardsmen, state police, sheriff's deputies and farmers began a widespread search of the hill country when Walter H. Pol, 23, La Porte, Ind., stumbled into the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bock.

He told of leaving three companions, Donald H. Atkinson, 21, South Bend, Ind.; Jerry A. Young, 20, Eaton, Ind.; and Dale C. Brushaber, 19, Saginaw, Mich., in the wreckage before being rushed to a hospital. Atkinson and Brushaber were injured fatally.

Bock said Pol had knocked at the door and said, "I need help." Before passing out, Pol said he didn't know exactly how the crash occurred.

"I believe we ran out of gas," he said.

It was 7½ hours after the fatal crash that a faint National Guardsman's cry of "straight south" sent rescuers scrambling to the shattered Piper Tri-Pacer rented Friday afternoon in Lafayette. The four, all radio hobbyists, rented the plane for a trip to Muncie, Ind., to get radio parts from Young's home.

Terms Aerial
Raids Cuba's
Pearl HarborCastro Denies His Own Pilots Bombed
Bases; Blames U.S.

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro Sunday challenged the United States to present proof to the United Nations of the story that insurgents of his air force bombed Cuban air bases where eight persons were killed.

Calling Saturday's attacks on three military airfields Cuba's Pearl Harbor, he declared President Kennedy and the U.S. government were responsible.

He compared the bombing to the acts of Nazis and fascists who attacked without notice or declaration of war and said the purpose was to destroy the Cuban air force as a prelude to aggression.

For the first time Castro called his revolution socialistic, the word that Communists customarily use to refer to their movement.

An hour after Castro spoke, a lone high-flying fighter plane flew over Camp Libertad, one of the fields bombed Saturday, and drew strong anti-aircraft fire. Cuban authorities later identified the plane as one of their own.

Denouncing President Kennedy as a "cat that throws rocks and hides its hand," he declared: "If President Kennedy has one atom of decency, he will present the planes and pilots before the United Nations. If not, then the world has the right to call him a liar."

Charges Denied By Stevenson

The President has made no direct statement on the attack, but Adlai E. Stevenson, U. S. ambassador to the U. N., denied Saturday the charges and read to the General Assembly the statement of a pilot landing in Miami who had attacked his own airfield. Stevenson repeated the President's declaration that the United States would not intervene in Cuba.

Castro said the pilot's story was a "troubling legend" and that Stevenson was "shameless."

The Cuban leader said the planes, which bombed airfields at Havana, San Antonio de los Baños and Santiago, wounding 52 persons, had attacked "cities."

But the only damage other than to military bases disclosed here so far was to two or three houses, just outside the airfield at Havana, which were hit by rockets.

Castro spoke at a military funeral and massive demonstration for seven of the "Cuban heroes" killed by the bombs and rockets. The eighth victim, who died of injuries Sunday, will be buried separately.

Drawing a similarity between the air raids and the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Castro said the Japanese had assumed full responsibility for their aggression, but "the President of the United States is like a cat... which throws a rock and hides its hand."

Clergy Also Assailed

Castro also blasted the clergy, which he charged was "associated with the crime."

His hearers let out cries of "To the execution wall!"

Castro charged the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had "financed and prepared the aerial aggression." He said the United States could never forgive his regime "for having made a Socialist revolution right under their own noses."

It was the first time within memory here that he had referred to his revolution as "Socialist." The Cuban Communist party, the only political party permitted to operate openly in Cuba, calls itself the Popular Socialist party.

Johnson Gives Adenauer Pledge
Of U. S. Support

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson Sunday pledged to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer that "you stand up against the Communists, and we will stand by your side."

Johnson made the promise to Adenauer before about 7,000 persons at a public reception in the German settlement of Fredericksburg near the Johnson ranch.

Adenauer and Johnson flew to Texas Sunday from Washington. The chancellor will be a guest of the Vice President and Mrs. Johnson during his two-day Texas visit.

Adenauer speaks Monday before a joint session of the Texas Legislature in Austin.

Congo Blockade
Of U.N. Supplies
Grows Critical

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—United Nations troops in the Congo are running short of food, with a five-week Congolese stranglehold on vital supply lines showing no signs of a letup.

The blockade of U.N. supplies at the key port of Matadi becomes daily more critical for the entire U.N. military operation in the Congo. A senior U.N. official indicated Sunday a crisis point might be reached within three or four weeks.

The current food shortage follows Matadi's loss in battle to the Congolese army. Ninety-five per cent of all imported U.N. supplies were handled at Matadi, but weeks of negotiation with Congolese authorities have failed to get U.N. troops back to the port.

Supplies continue to arrive there, but the U.N. refuses to recognize the right of the Congolese to handle them. To clear the docks, the Congolese have sent the supplies 250 miles by rail to Leopoldville, where more than 120,000 pounds of food and other goods have piled up in warehouses and cold storage plants.

None of these supplies so far have been delivered to the United Nations, and a deadlock appears to have been reached, with both sides blaming the other.

Win Or Lose, Liz Taylor's Appearance
Will Highlight Tonight's Oscar Awards

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Everything is set for the 33rd Motion Picture Academy Awards, and it looks like Elizabeth Taylor's big night.

The Oscar festival at Santa Monica's Civic Auditorium Monday night will mark Miss Taylor's debut in public since her near-fatal illness. All the predictors say that she will go home with the famed gold statuette on her lap.

The crystal gazers are not as unified on who will win the best actor award. There is a strong undercurrent for Burt Lancaster, but some believe Jack Lemmon will edge him out.

The predictors aren't the only ones who have been busy. Television cable has been strung like spaghetti through the corridors of the handsome civic auditorium, and the show's producers have tried to take every precaution that Oscar doesn't fall on his small golden face, as he sometimes has in the past.

The cast was pretty well lined up. The appearance of Miss Taylor, nominated for "Butterfield 8," will be a dramatic event whether she wins or not. Her closest competition—Greer Garson, named for "Sunrise at Campobello"—will also be present.

The other contenders for best actress will be missing. Shirley MacLaine ("The Apartment"), Melina Mercouri ("Never on Sunday") and Deborah Kerr ("The Sundowners") are all abroad.

Lancaster ("Elmer Gantry") and Lemmon ("The Apartment") will both be in attendance. Trevor Howard ("Sons and Lovers") will appear, since he is making a film in Hollywood. The usually unsocial Spencer Tracy ("Inherit the Wind") has said he will show. Laurence Olivier ("The Entertainer") is appearing in a play in the East.

Most of the nominees for supporting acting awards will be among the 2,500 who will fill the auditorium. The male contenders are Peter Falk ("Murder, Inc."), Jack Kruschen ("The Apartment"), Sal Mineo ("Exodus"), Peter Ustinov ("The Sundowners") and Chill Wills ("The Alamo").

Nominated for supporting actress Oscars: Glynis Johns ("The Sundowners"), Shirley Jones ("Elmer Gantry"), Shirley Knight ("The Dark at the Top of the Stairs"), Janet Leigh ("Psycho") and Mary Ure ("Sons and Lovers").

Six Of Family Perish In Fire

MADISONVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Three women and three children, all members of one family perished early Sunday in a fire which followed a kerosene explosion in a wood stove at their home.

Two men were burned, one seriously, in the fire which destroyed their cabin home in a remote mountainous area near here.

The victims were: Mrs. Webster (Lucy) Frye, 68; her daughter, Miss Ruth Frye, 36, a deaf mute; Mrs. J. R. (Arlene) Watson, 26; and Mrs. Watson's three daughters—Barbara Ann, 8; Betty Ruth, 4; and Kathy, 9 months.

Mrs. Watson was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frye, and a sister of Ruth Frye.

Frye was hospitalized with serious burns, but sheriff's officers said Watson's burns were less severe.

The family lived about six miles east of here, near the North Carolina border.

Some 14 inches of snow fell through Sunday afternoon in the Duluth, Minn., area. Strong northerly winds coupled with the snow brought critical road conditions.

Iowa, North and South Dakota also reported strong winds and snow.

Six Planes Made Raids, Rebels Say

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Cuban insurgent organization said Saturday that the air raids on Cuba were carried out by six planes. The newly formed Revolutionary Council said in Miami that five of the planes had landed outside Cuba Saturday and one fell into the ocean at an undisclosed point.

The statement conflicted with words from a pilot who brought his shotup B26 into Miami. That flier said three planes had participated in the strikes at Havana and Santiago de Cuba airfields.

Two of the raiding fliers landed at Boca Chica Naval Air Station at Key West in an apparently undamaged B26.

There were rumors that a third plane crashlanded at Dry Tortugas, uninhabited island at the tip of the Florida keys, but no information on that was forthcoming from Navy or immigration spokesmen.

The fliers who reached Miami and Key West were held by immigration authorities. Spokesmen declined to identify any of them, saying the men had asked not to be named. Officers said they claimed to be Cuban air force men who had stolen the planes they were flying.

The council said a mass defection of Cuban air force pilots originally had been planned for Easter Week on April 2 but had to be postponed. It did not elaborate.

All the planes involved in Saturday's raids were Cuban government aircraft, the council said.

Eichmann Plea Of Not Guilty Expected Today

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—Adolf Eichmann is expected to rise in his glass cage and plead not guilty Monday when the special court returns to his trial on charges of crimes against the Jewish people and humanity.

Since Friday noon the three-judge panel has deliberated on the challenge by Eichmann's German lawyer of its authority to try the former chief of the Gestapo's Jewish affairs section.

Although no one knew what was going on in the chambers of Supreme Court Justice Moshe Landau and Dist. Court Presidents Benjamin Halevy and Izhak Ravveh, everyone expects they will reject the challenge.

The next step, then, would be Eichmann's plea. He is expected to plead not guilty.

Prosecutor Gideon Hausner then will open his case with a statement of 40,000 to 50,000 words—the length of a fair-sized book—that is expected to take a day, at least, for presentation.

The statement, it was reported, will start with the establishment of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich and proceed to the details of all the charges against Eichmann, 55, who is accused of chief responsibility for the deaths of six million Jews.

Still ahead is the testimony of 39 witnesses for the Israeli state, many of whom met Eichmann personally during his days of authority.

One of these, Avraham Krassik, was a member of a group of 70 Jewish prisoners once rounded up to obliterate as much as possible the telltale traces left by the Nazi murder teams. He may describe how in 1944 he and other Jews were forced to open the graves of Jews killed by firing squads and scatter the fragments over the fields.

Terms Aerial Raids Cuba's Pearl Harbor

Castro Denies His Own Pilots Bombed Bases; Blames U.S.

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro Sunday challenged the United States to present proof to the United Nations of the story that insurgents of his air force bombed Cuban air bases where eight persons were killed.

Calling Saturday's attacks on three military airfields Cuba's Pearl Harbor, he declared President Kennedy and the U.S. government were responsible.

He compared the bombing to the acts of Nazis and fascists who attacked without notice or declaration of war and said the purpose was to destroy the Cuban air force as a prelude to aggression.

For the first time Castro called his revolution socialist, the word that Communists customarily use to refer to their movement.

An hour after Castro spoke, a lone high-flying fighter plane flew over Camp Libertad, one of the fields bombed Saturday, and drew strong anti-aircraft fire. Cuban authorities later identified the plane as one of their own.

Denouncing President Kennedy as a "cat that throws rocks and hides its hand," he declared: "If President Kennedy has one atom of decency, he will present the planes and pilots before the United Nations. If not, then the world has the right to call him a liar."

Charges Denied By Stevenson

The President has made no direct statement on the attack, but Adlai E. Stevenson, U. S. ambassador to the U. N., denied Saturday the charges and read to the General Assembly the statement of a pilot landing in Miami with a riddled bomber who said he had attacked his own airfield. Stevenson repeated the President's declaration that the United States would not intervene in Cuba.

Castro said the pilot's story was a "truculent legend" and that Stevenson was "shameless."

The Cuban leader said the planes, which bombed airfields at Havana, San Antonio de los Baños and Santiago, wounding 52 persons, had attacked "cities."

But the only damage other than to military bases disclosed here so far was to two or three houses, just outside the airfield at Havana, which were hit by rockets.

Castro spoke at a military funeral and massive demonstration for seven of the "Cuban heroes" killed by the bombs and rockets. The eighth victim, who died of injuries Sunday, will be buried separately.

Drawing a similarity between the air raids and the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, Castro said the Japanese had assumed full responsibility for their aggression, but "the President of the United States is like a cat . . . which throws a rock and hides its hand."

Clergy Also Assailed

Castro also blasted the clergy, which he charged was "associated with the crime."

His hearers let out cries of "To the execution wall!"

Castro charged the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had "financed and prepared the aerial aggression." He said the United States could never forgive his regime "for having made a Socialist revolution right under their own noses."

It was the first time within memory here that he had referred to his revolution as "Socialist." The Cuban Communist party, the only political party permitted to operate openly in Cuba, calls itself the Popular Socialist party.

Win Or Lose, Liz Taylor's Appearance Will Highlight Tonight's Oscar Awards

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Everything is set for the 33rd Motion Picture Academy Awards, and it looks like Elizabeth Taylor's big night.

The Oscar festival at Santa Monica's Civic Auditorium Monday night will mark Miss Taylor's debut in public since her near-fatal illness. All the predictors say that she will go home with the famed gold statuette on her lap.

The crystal gazers are not as unified on who will win the best actor award. There is a strong undercurrent for Burt Lancaster, but some believe Jack Lemmon will edge him out.

The predictors aren't the only ones who have been busy. Television cable has been strung like spaghetti through the corridors of the handsome civic auditorium.

The show's producers have tried to take every precaution that Oscar doesn't fall on his small golden face, as he sometimes has in the past.

The cast was pretty well lined up. The appearance of Miss Taylor, nominated for "Butterfield 8," will be a dramatic event whether she wins or not. Her closest competition—Greer Garson, named for "Sunrise at Campobello"—will also be present.

The other contenders for best actress will be missing. Shirley MacLaine ("The Apartment"), Melina Mercouri ("Never on Sunday") and Deborah Kerr ("The Sundowners") are all abroad.

Lancaster ("Elmer Gantry") and Lemmon ("The Apartment") will both be in attendance. Trevor Howard ("Sons and Lovers") will appear, since he is making a film in Hollywood. The usually un-social Spencer Tracy ("Inherit the Wind") has said he will show. Laurence Olivier ("The Entertainer") is appearing in a play in the East.

Most of the nominees for supporting acting awards will be among the 2,500 who will fill the auditorium. The male contenders are Peter Falk ("Murder, Inc."), Jack Kruschen ("The Apartment"), Sal Mineo ("Exodus"), Peter Ustinov ("The Sundowners") and Chill Wills ("The Alamo").

Frederick Boy Victim Of Russian Roulette

FREDERICK (AP)—A 17-year-old Frederick youth was fatally wounded Sunday while playing Russian roulette with a brother and another companion in nearby New London.

State Police said witnesses told them the victim, Kenneth Eugene Warfield, picked up a .22-caliber revolver and said to the other two youths, "Watch this."

Police said he spun the cylinder, put the weapon to his head and pulled the trigger, discharging one of two bullets in the gun.

Crash Of Plane Kills Two Of Four College Students

GREENCASTLE, Ind. (AP)—An empty fuel tank, a blinding snowstorm, and no place to land led to the deaths of two Purdue University students and critical injuries to another when their light plane plunged into the side of a wooded gully Saturday night.

A fourth companion forced his way out of the battered wreckage seven miles northeast of here, staggered around over the rugged snow-covered terrain about two hours, then dazedly followed a distant light to a "armhouse."

About 50 National Guardsmen, state police, sheriff's deputies and farmers began a widespread search of the hill country when Walter H. Pol, 23, La Porte, Ind., stumbled into the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bock.

He told of leaving three companions, Donald H. Atkinson, 21, South Bend, Ind.; Jerry A. Young, 20, Eaton, Ind., and Dale C. Brushaber, 19, Saginaw, Mich., in the wreckage before being rushed to a hospital. Atkinson and Brushaber were injured fatally.

Bock said Pol had knocked at the door and said, "I need help." Before passing out, Pol said he didn't know exactly how the crash occurred.

"I believe we ran out of gas," he said.

It was 7½ hours after the fatal crash that a faint National Guardsman's cry of "straight south" sent rescuers scrambling to the shattered Piper Tri-Pacer rented Friday afternoon in Lafayette.

The four, all radio hobbyists, rented the plane for a trip to Muncie, Ind., to get radio parts from Young's home.

Latin-American Proposal On Cuba Has U.S. Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States was reported agreeable Sunday to a Latin American resolution on its trouble with Cuba, regarding it as the easiest way out of the present U.N. debate on that subject.

The prospective resolution would have the assembly invite members of the Organization of American States to lend their assistance toward relaxation of tensions between Havana and Washington.

Diplomatic sources said the United States had wanted no resolution at all but consented to support one from Latin America to head off another planned by Guinea, Mali, Morocco and the United Arab Republic.

The latter would have the assembly recommend that Cuba and the United States make every effort to resolve their differences by the peaceful means provided for in the U.N. Charter.

Both prospective proposals would urge countries generally to refrain from any action that might increase U.S.-Cuban tensions.

They were aimed at the General Assembly's main Political Committee, where Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa Monday will present Cuba's complaint of U.S. aggression.

The complaint, accusing the United States of plans of aggression and acts of intervention against Cuba, had been awaiting consideration since Roa filed it last Oct. 18.

State May Be Forced To Tap Reserve Fund

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland will have to dip into a reserve fund if tax collections during the current fiscal year don't meet expectations, revenue officials have indicated.

"It's touch and go right now whether we'll make our estimates," Bureau of Revenue chief W. Irvin Young said Saturday.

A reserve fund of $12 million was set aside by the legislature in 1960 for use in such an eventuality.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said revenue from the sales tax may be as much as $1 million short in the absence of a business upswing later.

On the other hand, revenue from the State Insurance Department is $750,000 above the anticipated figure.

The state income tax — one of Maryland's leading revenue producers — probably holds the answer. It is running "very close" to estimates, officials said, but more figures are required for a final evaluation.

Motor vehicle revenues figured in the downward trend among tax collections. They were $825,938 lower during the first nine months of the fiscal year than the same period last year.

Pro-De Gaulle Throng Rough On Hecklers

BORDEAUX, France (AP) — An irate crowd snuffed out attempts Sunday by a handful of right-wingers to heckle President Charles de Gaulle with shouts of "Algerie Francaise!" Algeria is French.

The throng massed on the plaza in front of Bordeaux's City Hall reacted quickly, with some violence, to the scattered shouting from opponents of De Gaulle's Algerian policies. Some hecklers were physically attacked, and police had to intervene to rescue them.

While the hecklers were being escorted away for questioning, the throng erupted into a thunderous ovation for the president.

The incident occurred as De Gaulle rose to make another in the series of speeches he has been making on his five-day grassroots tour of southwestern France. In this speech he repeated much of what he had been saying since the tour began. Many persons had looked to his Bordeaux speech for a new pronouncement on the possibility of peace talks with the Algerian nationalist rebels, FLN.

Such peace negotiations were originally scheduled for April 7 at Evian-les-Bains, but the FLN backed out after insisting that France must recognize it as the mainspring of Algerian nationalism.

Salty Tale Of Fat Women

MESSINA, Sicily (AP) — The ferryboat of fat women plies its daily way across the Strait of Messina from Sicily to the Italian mainland.

And thereby hangs a salty tale Sicilians love to tell. For the ponderously padded fat women who ride the ferry from Messina to Reggio Calabria all come back thin.

Under their voluminous garments they carry 50 pounds or more of smuggled salt, in muslin bags, one way.

They can buy salt in the semi-autonomous region of Sicily for as little as two cents a pound. In Reggio Calabria, where salt is a state-taxed government monopoly, it sells for six cents a pound. Fifty pounds of smuggled salt net the "fat women" about $2 a day. And in Sicily you can live on that.

Take old Teresa for example — and she's classic. She has been going across fat with salt and coming home lean with profit almost since the first ferryboat crossed the Strait of Messina. Sicilians say that years ago a handsome young customs policeman aboard the ferryboat asked her: "Signorina (Miss) Teresa, why are you doing it? You know it's against the law."

"And you, a Sicilian, must ask me," young Teresa is quoted as telling him. "How is a girl going to get married here without earning a dowry?"

The years pass, and the customs lieutenant asks: "Signorina (Mrs.) Teresa, why don't you stop it?" and she replied: "And you ask me that! Me, with a husband unemployed and children to be raised."

Years roll on. A young customs guard with a newly sprouted mustache asks the old woman: "Nonna (Grandma) Teresa, my father told me about you. Why are you still doing it, nonna, why?"

And old Grandma Teresa cackles and tells him: "I'm working my grandson's way through college, you young rascal!"

Why haven't the police ever stopped it?

They've tried. Back in Mussolini's day the dictator sent orders down that the salt smuggling must be halted. Old timers say that when Il Duce's order arrived, a young customs guard stood at the ferryboat gangplank and cast a critical eye over every woman who came aboard. Finally he saw one with an improbable figure. He slipped up behind her, grabbed her around the waist and shouted: "Got you!"

The baby was born then and there.

And since that time, Sicilians say, no customs guard has ever laid hand on a ferryboat fat woman, whatever her figure or her padding.

He wound up his two-hour speech — delivered at a pitch seldom achieved even in his most fiery oratory — by ordering his army and militia to combat positions to "confront the aggressors."

"If the attack on Pearl Harbor is considered by the American people as a criminal, traitorous, cowardly act," Castro cried angrily, "then our people have a right to consider this act twice as criminal, twice as cunning, twice as traitorous, and a thousand times as cowardly."

Standing bareheaded in the torrid Havana heat and surrounded by heavily armed guards, Castro spoke near Colon Cemetery where services were held for the victims.

His remarks drew the usual chorus of anti-American shouts from the crowd, including "Down with Caimanera!" — the Cuban term for the U. S. Naval Base on Guantanamo Bay in eastern Cuba.

Civil War Muskets Win In Match With M-1 Rifles

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Civil War muskets were pitted against modern M-1 rifles at the annual North-South Skirmish marksman-ship contest Sunday — and the Civil War guns won.

About 3,000 spectators turned out under sunny skies to watch the colorful annual shooting match. Participants, mostly civilians, were dressed in the clothing and uniforms of the 1860s.

The only event in which real soldiers participated was a shooting match between a Ft. Meade team of two men with modern guns and civilian musketeers with .58-caliber caplock rifles.

A post spokesman said the modern rifles were not as effective as the old ones because their high-velocity bullets went through clay pigeons without shattering them.

The 17th Regiment of Virginia Infantry, from Alexandria, took top honors for the third consecutive year. The southerners scored 44 out of a possible 50 points with their withering fire.

Oxon Hill, Md. marksmen representing the First Stuart Horse Artillery, another Confederate unit, took second place. The only Union Army honors of the day's historical pageant were won by the Washington Blue Rifles from the District of Columbia, which took third place.

Civil War cannon boomed during the matches, in a demonstration by five civilian artillery teams. A Ft. Meade spokesman described the cannon fire as "amazingly accurate."

Despite the sanguinary character of the mock skirmish, several events were contests between ladies dressed in Civil War crinolines, bonnets and laces. The costume of Mrs. Eveline Wamsley of Falls Church, Va., was judged the most authentic. The prettiest skirmish lady title went to Mrs. Helen Alexander of Oxon Hill, Md.

The pageant, sponsored by the Potomac Region of the North-South Skirmish Association, climaxed the week-long 2nd Army Commander's Rifle and Pistol championship matches.

Finch, Carole To Be Formally Sentenced

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff return to court Monday to be sentenced formally to life in prison — and their lawyers pledged again Sunday to ask for a new trial.

A 10-man 2-woman jury sentenced the lovers April 5 for the 1959 gunshot slaying of the surgeon's wife, Barbara Jean, 33, in front of her home. The same jury convicted them of murder nine days before at their third trial.

POWERFUL NEW PLUNGER CLOGGED TOILETS in a jiffy!

'TOILAFLEX' Toilet ALL-ANGLE Plunger

NEVER AGAIN that sick feeling when your toilet overflows

Ordinary plungers don't seat properly, forcing air and water to splash back. Thus you have a mess and you lose the very pressure needed to clear the clogging mass.

With "ToiLaflex", designed for toilets, no air or water can escape. The patented, tapered tail forms an air-tight fit: the full pressure flows through the obstruction and swishes it down. Can't miss!

State Highway Mishaps Claim Lives Of Four

By The Associated Press

Four persons died in Maryland highway accidents during the weekend, bringing the total for the year to 94, compared with 157 for the same period last year.

A tractor-trailer truck hit a bridge abutment near Hagerstown Sunday, fell to railroad tracks below, and was hit by an oncoming train, killing the driver.

Killed in the accident was Jennings L. Strawderman, 34, of Lost River, W. Va. State police said Strawderman may have fallen asleep at the wheel when his truck left the road on Interstate Highway 81 west of Hagerstown. The truck rolled down the embankment, directly into the path of an oncoming Pennsylvania Railroad train.

The driver was crushed in the cab of his truck, but the train was able to continue after a slight delay.

In another Sunday accident, 16-year-old Charles Hamilton of Sykesville, Md., in Carroll County, was killed while changing a tire on his car.

Police said Hamilton and a companion, David Hawkins, also of Sykesville, had stopped their car to change the tire on Maryland 97 near Westminster. A second car, driven by Mrs. Uvilla Dorn of Westminster, slowed down while passing the stopped car, and was involved in a collision with a third car. The third car's driver was identified as Charles Harrison of Finksburg, Md.

Hamilton was killed in the three-way crash. Hawkins was seriously injured and taken to Sinai Hospital near Westminster, where his condition was reported critical.

A Cumberland man, William M. Bishop, 49, died Saturday when he was struck by a car on U. S. 220 near his home. State police said he was crossing the road when he was hit by a car driven by Robert L. Clayton, 22, also of Cumberland.

In a suburb of Baltimore, 13-year-old George Nemethvargh of Glen Burnie was killed Saturday when a car ran over the soap-box racer the boy was riding.

In an out-of-state accident, Willie Chavis, 48, of Baltimore, was killed Saturday near Lydia, S.C., in a collision with a tractor-trailer truck.

Severe Winds Cause Damage At Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — A 10-mile storm with high winds ripped through the Hagerstown area Sunday morning causing extensive property damage. No one was injured.

Many trees were felled by the storm, and chimneys, antennae, signs, awnings and roofs were damaged. Roof damage was reported at several homes, and telephone lines were down briefly in the city.

A farm owned by Charles Clem in Lewistown, Frederick County, was severely damaged. Police said a barn, a porch and several livestock buildings were damaged by the blow at the farm.

The Weather Bureau at Friendship Airport said the Hagerstown storm probably was only an isolated severe squall, since no other reports of high wind storms were received.

Hodges Voices Concern Over Price Fixing

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther B. Hodges said Sunday he was "terribly concerned" about price fixing in industry, and implied that new government charges may be forthcoming.

Hodges spoke at a convention of Rotarians from Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

"I am terribly concerned about things happening in industry in recent months," Hodges said. "I am speaking of price fixing, about which you have heard. I am not condemning it there (in industry) alone. It happens elsewhere, and more of it will show up soon."

The secretary called on businessmen and Rotary members to cooperate in the fight against price fixing, and cited President Kennedy's advice to "ask not what the country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country."

"It worries me that the public may lose confidence in what business stands for," Hodges said, "and sometimes I fear lest they lose faith in our system, and finally, faith in what made this country great."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—The contestants whom he greatly resembles. He and their friends at the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences made as much noise over their Grammys as we will make over our Oscars at the Academy Awards Monday night.

It was a very pleasant evening. I was the guest of Neil Hefti who made Doris Day's most recent album. His charming wife is a former singer. I didn't know I was to present an award with Jimmy McHugh until we arrived at the party—he forgot to tell me.

Bob Newhart, newest of the newcomers, and Ray Charles, wonderful blind singer, carried off four Grammys.

Bobby Darin and Sandra Dee came over to talk to us and I told Bobby I thought it was too bad that Sandra, who looked so pretty, wasn't with him on the stage when he presented the Grammy award. He did his stint with Giselle Mackenzie. I think Bobby is making a mistake by keeping Sandra in the back-ground. (I love him and hate to see him do it.) After, all, she's a star in her own right.

Ella Fitzgerald received her Grammy in New York. She carried home three, as did Hank Mancini. Peggy Lee turned over her Grammy to her arranger and said he earned it. Sara Berner said the comedy relief of the evening—that is, next to Mort Sahl, who was a humorous master of ceremonies.

Jo Stafford tells me she has rented a house in London where she does some special recordings. She and Paul Weston and the children will leave soon for Europe. She said there are three times as many record companies in Great Britain as there were a year ago. Paul was the first president of NARAS.

All in all it was an interesting evening, and it was nice to see some of my friends in the record business—Dorothy and Glenn Walsh, the Voyle Gilmores, the Lee Gillettes, Dick Pierce who brought Ann-Margaret over to our table. She looks much bigger than she does on TV, but she really has a personality.

Hear tell that Frank Sinatra has bought most of Kanab, Utah, the town where so many movies are made. Well, that should give him the privacy he wants while he's filming "The Badlands." I also understand that he's building a private airfield so that he can have his own airlines service.

My boy, Doug McClure, will play one of the male leads in "Badlands." I hope he won't be pushed off into oblivion. Also Bing's boys, Lindsay, Philip and Dennis are pencilled in for parts, and will be on hand when Mr. S. calls "Camera" on May 22 for his members of the summit clan—Dean Martin, Peter Lawford, Joey Bishop and Sammy Davis, Jr.

A tip from New York from a very reliable source puts Hugh O'Brian and Soraya together again at Danny's Hideaway. They sat quietly in a corner, and this is one time when Hugh's not talking.

I found out that he's in New York getting ready for the tent shows he's going to do this summer. He opens first at the Drury Lane Theatre in Chicago May 16 in "Heaven Can Wait," then on June 13 he goes into summer stock in "Destiny Rides Again," remaining until September.

No one seemed to know anything about Soraya, but I am told she slipped quietly into the country just to meet Mr. O'Brian, so let's not sell this romance short.

If "Breakfast at Tiffany's" is anywhere as good as Henry (Hank) Mancini says, Paramount really will have a goodie. He went to San Francisco where the movie was sneak-premiered, and said in all his years of writing tunes for motion pictures, never has he seen such rare cards.

Hank, who carried home three Grammy awards (best arrangement, best performance by an orchestra for his "Mr. Lucky" show, and best jazz performance) did the score for the picture, and wrote "Moon River" with Johnny Mercer for Audrey Hepburn. He says Audrey is wonderful in the picture. That's very easy to understand—isn't she always?

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas lunched at U-I a few days ago, the guest of Stanley Kramer and, of course, the illustrious jurist met the stars of "Judgment at Nuremberg" including Burt Lancaster, Marlene Dietrich—and Spencer Tracy.

And what do you do?" smiled Spence.

"I sign your name and write all sorts of flowery sentiments," retorted Justice Douglas. "Bet I've picked up a lot of fans for you."

There's a new Maureen O'Hara among us, slimmer and prettier, and with a new career opening for her. It all started with "Parent Trap" in which she starred for Walt Disney.

Jerry Wald took one look at Maureen in the Disney comedy, then and there forgot about all the other beauties he had been considering for "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation" and signed her to play opposite James Stewart. Henry Koster is the director. 20th Century Fox chief Bob Goldstein also took a quick look at Maureen before he left for Europe to re-route "Cleopatra" and gave his okay. Maureen had been appearing on the stage and in TV before Hollywood decided to summon her home.

Off for New York on a flying trip of a week during which she'll be the guest of Joe Vogel at an industry testimonial dinner for Eric Johnston. Irene Dunne is just about the busiest lady on either coast.

That project so dear to her heart, "The Winning of the West" at MGM (proceeds go to the new wing of St. John's Hospital) now seems to be lining up for a June starting date. "It's so wonderful that Spencer Tracy has said 'yes' to appearing in the sequence directed by John Ford," Irene said. Debbie Reynolds, Gregory Peck, John Wayne, Bing Crosby and more star will glitter in this.

From Rome comes word that Vittorio de Sica, who can pick and choose his engagements in Italy, starred in "General Della Rovere" as a favor to Roberto Rossellini. Roberto has been very much "out" in Italian film circles since the Sonali Das Gupta affair following on the heels of his separation from Ingrid Bergman.

"General Della Rovere," however, puts the rotund great lover right back in the place of esteem he had after "Open City." This is another war film done in the same realistic tradition and has already won the Venice Film Festival Award, the International Film Critics Award, and the International Catholic Award.

The pleasant thing to report, however, is that De Sica's good deed hasn't gone unrewarded. He has been offered not only Italy's best, but some very important roles in the USA.

It was way past my bedtime when I put down Bob Considine's book "The Men Who Robbed Brinks," written in collaboration with Specs O'Keefe, who was one of the men involved. I was particularly interested because when I was in New York, Bob introduced me to Specs, who is a curious character.

But after you've read the book, you know why he squealed to the FBI—he didn't get his "cut" of the stolen money, and his life was constantly threatened. It's hard to understand how anyone could get so much pleasure out of stealing.

Bob wrote this book also in conjunction with the FBI, who never let up until they had the Brink's robbers under lock and key.

That out and out charmer Cesare Danova checks onto the 20th Century Fox lot just long enough for wardrobe fittings and to get his visa arranged for a trip to Italy as he is the latest to join the "Tender is the Night" cast. It will be particularly nice for Cesare when the company headed by Jennifer Jones and Jason Robards Jr. returns to 20th because Pamela Danova, Cesare's wife, was recently put in charge of the drama school for 20th.

In "Tender Is the Night," Cesare steps out of his usual character to play the American suitor who wins Jennifer after he fling with Robards.

Weddings Are Family Affairs

"Our son is engaged and will be married the last of June. This is the first wedding as my daughters are all younger. We want to do everything right, but we're not sure what the groom or his bride's family pay for. Could you please help us?" writes a Pittsburgh mother.

The groom pays for the bride's bouquet and the flowers to be worn by both mothers.

He selects a wedding gift for his bride.

Buried In Cave-In

TOKYO (UPI) — Thirteen persons were reported buried alive Sunday in a cave-in of a tunnel south of Tokyo, reports reaching here said.

The cave-in occurred at the tunnel of the Tokyo Express Company at the town of East Izu, southeast of Tokyo.

Arrest Soldier

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Police Sunday arrested a British soldier in connection with the bombing Saturday night of a cabaret in Nicosia's Turkish quarter.

No one was injured in the blast, but several persons were hurt in a scuffle between Greek Cypriots and British servicemen that followed. The soldier's name was not disclosed.

Manhattan Island, with a population density of some 88,000 persons per square mile, is one of the most densely populated areas of like size in the world.

He chooses his best man and ushers, and gives them gifts.

He pays for boutonnières for himself, best man, ushers, and fathers.

He pays the license fee and the minister's fee.

He sends the bride a corsage for her going-away costume.

He takes care of all expenses connected with the wedding trip.

So there will be no question in your mind, the following list is what the bride or her family pays for:

The wedding gown and veil.

The bride's trousseau.

A gift for the groom and the bride's attendants.

Bouquets for the attendants and flowers for their hair, if the bride prefers them to hats.

Invitations and announcements (and mailing of them) both for the bride's and groom's list.

All expenses of the wedding reception.

Maryland News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—A hearing has been scheduled for April 25 for an escaped inmate of a Maryland state mental institution who was captured by FBI agents here Saturday.

The escapee, Mack Wilson Fierst, 50, had saved his way out of his cell at the hospital for the criminally insane at Jessup April 5. A 13-state alarm was broadcast, and authorities described Fierst as "extremely dangerous."

He had been serving a term for armed robbery. Fierst was charged in Washington with flight to avoid confinement.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Louis A. Johnson of Clarksburg, a former secretary of defense, has been honored as the first recipient of the West Virginia Distinguished Service Medal.

Gov. W. W. Barron made the presentation Saturday. The citation said Johnson "sought the maximum military establishment commensurate with the national economic health . . . He was passionately devoted to the gospel of action."

BALTIMORE (AP) — Funeral services will be held Monday for Dr. Cecil H. Bagley of Baltimore, prominent eye specialist, who died Saturday at the age of 67.

Dr. Bagley, the son of Dr. Charles Bagley of Bagley, Md., taught at Johns Hopkins University's medical school from 1928 to 1959. Survivors include two sisters.

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP)—Miss Betty Jean Anderson of Clinton, Md., will have a hearing May 9 on a variety of charges connected with a wild auto chase up the Washington - Baltimore Expressway Saturday.

Maryland State police say Miss Anderson stole a state police car near her Prince Georges County home, drove through Washington, and headed north on the Expressway at speeds up to 115 miles an hour. The renegade patrol car was stopped shortly after bypassing a roadblock near Annapolis Junction.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Authorities are investigating a $275,000 fire that demolished a roadside Baltimore County nightclub Saturday.

The fire leveled the Midway Inn on the eastbound lane of U. S. 40. Water had to be trucked to the scene because of the lack of any hydrants in the area, and firemen said the blaze had almost destroyed the building by the time they arrived. No one was injured.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, Maryland civic leader, will be chairman of the Women's Committee for the 20th International Navigation Congress.

Gov. Tawes appointed Mrs. Whitehurst to the post this week-end.

The congress will be held in Baltimore Sept. 11-19 this year. About 1,000 delegates from throughout the world will attend the session, purpose of which is to promote inland and maritime navigation. Mrs. Whitehurst will handle social and cultural affairs for the women at the meeting.

My boy, Doug McClure, will play one of the male leads in "Badlands." I hope he won't be pushed off into oblivion. Also Bing's boys, Lindsay, Philip and Dennis are pencilled in for parts, and will be on hand when Mr. S. calls "Camera" on May 22 for his members of the summit clan—Dean Martin, Peter Lawford, Joey Bishop and Sammy Davis, Jr.

A tip from New York from a very reliable source puts Hugh O'Brian and Soraya together again at Danny's Hideaway. They sat quietly in a corner, and this is one time when Hugh's not talking.

I found out that he's in New York getting ready for the tent shows he's going to do this summer. He opens first at the Drury Lane Theatre in Chicago May 16 in "Heaven Can Wait," then on June 13 he goes into summer stock in "Destiny Rides Again," remaining until September.

No one seemed to know anything about Soraya, but I am told she slipped quietly into the country just to meet Mr. O'Brian, so let's not sell this romance short.

If "Breakfast at Tiffany's" is anywhere as good as Henry (Hank) Mancini says, Paramount really will have a goodie. He went to San Francisco where the movie was sneak-premiered, and said in all his years of writing tunes for motion pictures, never has he seen such rave cards.

Hank, who carried home three Grammy awards (best arrangement, best performance by an orchestra for his "Mr. Lucky" show, and best jazz performance) did the score for the picture, and wrote "Moon River" with Johnny Mercer for Audrey Hepburn. He says Audrey is wonderful in the picture. That's very easy to understand—she's always.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas lunched at U-I a few days ago, the guest of Stanley Kramer and, of course, the illustrious jurist met the stars of "Judgment at Nuremberg" including Burt Lancaster, Marlene Dietrich—and Spencer Tracy whom he greatly resembles. He handed Spencer a bit of a jolt by telling him that Tracy fans frequently mistake him for the movie star and ask him for his autograph.

"And what do you do?" smiled Spencer.

"I sign your name and write all sorts of flowery sentiments," retorted Justice Douglas. "But I've picked up a lot of fans for you."

There's a new Maureen O'Hara among us, slimmer and prettier, and with a new career opening for her. It all started with "Parent Trap" in which she starred for Walt Disney.

Jerry Wald took one look at Maureen in the Disney comedy, then and there forgot about all the other beauties he had been considering for "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation" and signed her to play opposite James Stewart. Henry Koster is the director. 20th Century Fox chief Bob Goldstein also took a quick look at Maureen before he left for Europe to re-route "Cleopatra" and gave his okay. Maureen had been appearing on the stage and in TV before Hollywood decided to summon her home.

Off for New York on a flying trip of a week during which she'll be the guest of Joe Vogel at an industry testimonial dinner for Eric Johnston, Irene Dunne is just about the busiest lady on either coast.

That project so dear to her heart, "The Winning of the West" movie at MGM (proceeds go to the new wing of St. John's Hospital) now seems to be lining up for a June starting date. "It's so wonderful that Spencer Tracy has said 'yes' to appearing in the sequence directed by John Ford," Irene said. Debbie Reynolds, Gregory Peck, John Wayne, Bing Crosby and more star will glitter in this.

From Rome comes word that Vittorio De Sica, who can pick and choose his engagements in Italy, starred in "General Della Rovere" as a favor to Roberto Rossellini. Roberto has been very much "out" in Italian film circles since the Sonali Das Gupta affair following on the heels of his separation from Ingrid Bergman.

"General Della Rovere," however, puts the rotund great lover right back in the place of esteem he had after "Open City." This is another war film done in the same realistic tradition and has already won the Venice Film Festival Award, the International Film Critics Award, and the International Catholic Award.

The pleasant thing to report, however, is that De Sica's good deed hasn't gone unrewarded. He has been offered not only Italy's best, but some very important roles in the USA.

It was way past my bedtime when I put down Bob Considine's book "The Men Who Robbed Brinks," written in collaboration with Specs O'Keefe, who was one of the men involved. I was particularly interested because when I was in New York, Bob introduced me to Specs, who is a curious character.

But after you've read the book, you know why he squealed to the FBI—he didn't get his "cut" of the stolen money, and his life was constantly threatened. It's hard to understand how anyone could get so much pleasure out of stealing as Specs.

Bob wrote this book also in conjunction with the FBI, who never let up until they had the Brink's robbers under lock and key.

That out and out charmer Cesare Danova checks onto the 20th Century Fox lot just long enough for wardrobe fittings and to get his visa arranged for a trip to Italy as he is the latest to join the "Tender is the Night" cast. It will be particularly nice for Cesare when the company headed by Jennifer Jones and Jason Robards Jr. returns to 20th because Pamela Danova, Cesare's wife, was recently put in charge of the drama school for 20th.

In "Tender Is The Night," Cesare steps out of his usual character to play the American suitor who wins Jennifer after he flings with Robards.

Wedding-day etiquette helps the ceremony to run flawlessly. Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Weddings Are Family Affairs

"Our son is engaged and will be married the last of June. This is the first wedding as my daughters are all younger. We want to do everything right, but we're not sure what the groom or his bride's family pay for. Could you please help us?" writes a Pittsburgh mother.

The groom pays for the bride's bouquet and the flowers to be worn by both mothers.

He selects a wedding gift for his bride.

Buried In Cave-In

TOKYO (UPI)—Thirteen persons were reported buried alive Sunday in a cave-in of a tunnel south of Tokyo, reports reaching here said.

The cave-in occurred at the tunnel of the Tokyo Express Company at the town of East Izu, southeast of Tokyo.

Arrest Soldier

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Police Sunday arrested a British soldier in connection with the bombing Saturday night of a cabaret in Nicosia's Turkish quarter.

No one was injured in the blast, but several persons were hurt in a scuffle between Greek Cypriots and British servicemen that followed. The soldier's name was not disclosed.

Manhattan Island, with a population density of some 88,000 persons per square mile, is one of the most densely populated areas of like size in the world.

Maryland News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—A hearing has been scheduled for April 25 for an escaped inmate of a Maryland state mental institution who was captured by FBI agents here Saturday.

The escapee, Mack Wilson Fierst, 50, had sawed his way out of his cell at the hospital for the criminally insane at Jessup April 5. A 13-state alarm was broadcast, and authorities described Fierst as "extremely dangerous." He had been serving a term for armed robbery. Fierst was charged in Washington with flight to avoid confinement.

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Louis A. Johnson of Clarksburg, a former secretary of defense, has been honored as the first recipient of the West Virginia Distinguished Service Medal.

Gov. W. W. Barron made the presentation Saturday. The citation said Johnson "sought the maximum military establishment commensurate with the national economic health . . . He was passionately devoted to the gospel of action."

BALTIMORE (AP)—Authorities are investigating a $275,000 fire that demolished a roadside Baltimore County nightclub Saturday.

The fire leveled the Midway Inn on the eastbound lane of U. S. 40. Water had to be trucked to the scene because of the lack of any hydrants in the area, and firemen said the blaze had almost destroyed the building by the time they arrived. No one was injured.

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, Maryland civic leader, will be chairman of the Women's Committee for the 20th International Navigation Congress.

Gov. Tawes appointed Mrs. Whitehurst to the post this week-end.

The congress will be held in Baltimore Sept. 11-19 this year. About 1,000 delegates from throughout the world will attend the session, purpose of which is to promote inland and maritime navigation. Mrs. Whitehurst will handle social and cultural affairs for the women at the meeting.

Beall To Stage Vocal Festival And Art Show

Dual Event Set For Friday Night

FROSTBURG — A combination art show and vocal festival will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at Beall High School.

This annual festival features all types of paintings of the art classes of Mrs. Lucille Cinquegrani and will be on display in the lobby from 7 to 8 p. m. and following the music festival which is under the direction of Miss Mary Robb and will feature the junior and senior choruses.

The paintings in the exhibit will be in the following media: oil, ink, crayon, charcoal, water color and pastels. Other projects of students from grades 8 through 12 include ceramics, mobiles, stencils, copper, enamel, jewelry, wood and soap carving and mosaics.

The numbers to be presented by the junior chorus include: "My Lord What A Morning" and "Were You There?" "Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Seen" Robert Harper, soloist; "Plenty Good Room" chorus; "The Green Cathedral" quintet; "Czech Dance Song," "Humoresque" and "Old Folks At Home" chorus; "Stranger To Paradise" Claudia Skidmore, soloist; "The Beautiful Blue Danube" chorus; "Blue Moon" Thomas Baucum, soloist; "Down In The Valley" and "Darlin'" chorus; "Anchors Aweigh" Lou Ann McCullough, dancer; "When You Wish Upon A Star" quartet; and "Hiking Song" with verses 3 and 4 written by Yvonne Montana, sung by chorus.

The senior high chorus will present the following: "As Ye Do It Unto These," "Buggy Ride" and "Ode To Song" chorus; "Go Down Moses," "Gigi" and "They Call It America" boy's glee club; "El Matador" Jeannine Richardson, soloist; "Sheep And Lambs May Safely Graze," "Clouds" and Victor Herbert favorites, girls' glee club; "Hi Lili, Hi Lo" and "Ride The Chariot" ensemble; "Deep Purple" Thomas Richardson, soloist; "Rock A My Soul," "May Night" and "The Sound Of Music" chorus.

The quintet includes Linda Arnold, Julia Edmunds, Carolyn Schriver, Rose Wade and Gaudy, jorie White; quartet, Alice Goodwin, Margaret Jones, Glenda Lucas and Barbara Milburn; Ensemble — Carole Callin, Francis Crowe, Sandra Fresh, Lynn Horner, Connie Loar, Gordon Carpenter, Allan Eisel, Keith Kerr, Joseph Michael and Thomas Richardson.

Accompanists for the festival are: Eileen Llewellyn, Karen Rissler, Jeanne Richardson, Sandra Willetts and Thomas Baucum.

Inspectors Find Over $1 Million Undeposited

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Tax Department disclosed Saturday that two inspectors came up with $1,116,946.98 in undeposited checks and cash during an examination of the state auditor's office last January.

Inspectors Ira D. Davis and George B. Hildebrand, reported the money, most of it in checks, was found "in the files and on the desks of the various divisions" of the auditor's office.

State Auditor Denzil L. Gainer said, however, there is no comparison between the million dollar "find" and the $78,558 which Gainer said last month was discovered in a safe and desk.

The smaller sum included checks, cash and money orders which had accumulated over many years, Gainer said. The million dollars deposited after the inspectors' examination was "current and still being processed."

Many of the checks involved in the million - dollars apparently were only a few weeks old when finally deposited.

Hildebrand and Davis were called in for a routine examination of books left by State Auditor Litz McGuire after his seven-month tenure.

McGuire was appointed by former Gov. Cecil H. Underwood after the death of Auditor Edgar B. Sims. There had been no similar examination during Sims' 28 years in office.

Hildebrand said he was "surprised" to find that much money undeposited.

And Hildebrand's boss, chief inspector H. Thomas McCray, commented: "I should think that they would deposit daily." However, McCray added that frequency of deposits was up to Gainer.

All this is history, however, because under Gainer's new system of internal cash control, no money goes to the divisions where it could easily accumulate.

"All money coming to the department now is received by the cashier and deposited usually within a day or two," Gainer said.

Plan Demonstration

MT. SAVAGE — The Future Homemakers Club of the Mt. Savage High School is sponsoring a cooking demonstration at the Frostburg Gas Company office. The affair will be held April 25 at 8 p. m. The PTA and other interested groups are invited to attend.

Snyder Crowned "King" Of Ball

Lowell Snyder is crowned "king" at the annual Twirl "Gold Diggers" Ball of the Senior and Junior Future Homemakers of America at Valley High School in Lonaconing. Grey Getty, last year's "king," officiated. Standing beside the "king" is Carolyn Jean Stephen, his escort for the dance. At the right is Edward

Bailey, and his escort, Camille Steiding, who placed second in the contest. At the left are Marvin Miller and his escort, Rusty Dicken, who were the third place winners. Over 200 junior and senior high school students attended the dance in the school gym. Valley observed National Future Homemakers Week.

W. Va. Colleges Will Undergo New Survey

State To Study Needs, Standards

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education has taken steps to study the entire field of branch colleges following a report from the Council of State College Presidents.

Concord College President J. F. Marsh relayed to the board the intention of the West Virginia Association of College and University Presidents to make a study of branch colleges, including standards, needs and the question of accreditation.

The board noted that without such a study it could not grant approval to any college to establish branches. It then asked the presidents' association to draw up a preliminary report outlining what would be necessary to establish such branch colleges.

The board also noted that it had received a report that Marshall University hoped to start branches in Logan and Williamson next fall and that Bluefield and Concord colleges had been approached for branches in Welch.

Marsh said, however, it was his opinion that it would take at least a year's study to place the board in a position where it could approve branches for any college.

As a result of another council report, the board asked the presidents to get proposals from various insurance agencies for group health and life policies for employees and approved more liberal vacations for year-round employees.

1932 Show Picture Item Of Interest

KEYSER — A picture of the cast of "The World's All Right," which was presented in the old Music Hall in 1932, is creating a lot of interest among local people.

The picture is displayed in Elsie's window as part of the publicity for the 1961 Minstrel's which will be held Thursday and Friday, April 20 and 21 in the Keyser High School auditorium.

Some of the local persons in the picture are James Nichole, Charles Moon, James Leatherman, George Mills, Domineck Calentine, Jess Cheshire, Elsie Wells.

Boyd Oss, Grace Huffman, Peter Brill, William D. G. Rice, Marie Coffman, Abe Goldworthy, Elmer Boyce, John Melvin, Gladys Galbraith, Genevieve LaRue, Glen Smith and others.

Central Elementary PTA Will Elect

LONA CONING — The election of officers will be held at the Central Elementary school Parent-Teacher Association meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

James D. Preaskorn, guidance counselor at Valley High School, who is planning for the Orientation Day for sixth graders to visit Valley High School on May 3, will be guest speaker at the PTA program at 7:30 p. m.

The annual covered dish supper will be served at 6 p. m. in the Central cafeteria prior to the program. Mrs. Matilda Steele, president, will be presiding.

Teachers will not have visitation in their classrooms because of the supper and program planned. Mrs. Ann Foote is program chairman.

Births Announced

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. John Stark, RFD 3, announce the birth of a son Saturday in Miners Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Peck, this city, announce the birth of a daughter Saturday in the same hospital.

W. Va. Board Of Education To Make Appointments

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education has two big job openings for which it will take applications at least until the middle of next month.

Board President Lacy Rice of Martinsburg said the board will accept applications at least until its next meeting May 18-19 for the job of superintendent of schools and president of West Virginia Tech.

Rice said that although Rex Smith was made successor to the late R. Virgil Rohrbough, it was understood that Smith's position as superintendent was temporary, at least until the board has looked over the field to make a permanent appointment.

Smith has said he is available for the position on a permanent basis.

Tech President William B. Axtell announced to his faculty Tuesday night that he had submitted his resignation effective at the end of the current school year. He gave no reason for the action.

During an appearance before the board Wednesday, Axtell said it was "not possible" to eliminate the non-technical program at the Montgomery school.

That was Axtell's answer to an earlier request from the board that he submit a plan for the elimination of the school's non-technical program.

"Even if the non-technical program could be eliminated, it would be necessary to maintain a faculty in the humanities for the engineering students," Axtell said. "There is a greater emphasis now on liberal studies."

Axtell said that what Tech needs to gain engineering accreditation is $600,000 for an addition to the engineering building and a $100,000 a year in operating funds.

Rice asked Axtell to embody those recommendations in a report to be submitted to the board at its next meeting.

Student Council Officers Named

KEYSER—Miss Helen Michael, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Michael, Keyser, and Chris Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin, also Keyser, were elected president and vice president respectively of the Keyser High School Student Council Monday.

Miss Sandra McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McDowell, and William Chidester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chidester, were unsuccessful candidates.

Before presenting their names for candidacy students must have maintained a C average during their high school career. The candidate for president must be a junior at the time of election and the vice presidential candidate a sophomore.

John Stagers is the sponsor of the organization.

Eastern Star Meet Set Tomorrow Night

MT. SAVAGE — Rebecca Arnold Chapter 57, Order of Eastern Star, will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Junior Order Hall.

Worthy Matron Loretta Haus and Worthy Patron Clinton Bridges will preside at the business session.

Degrees will be conferred on a class of candidates and Mrs. Mary C. Davis, deputy grand lecturer, will make her final official visit to the chapter.

A social hour will follow with refreshments being served by Mrs. Virginia Geary, Mrs. Blanch Ashby, and Mrs. Evelyn Walters.

Birth Announced

PIEDMONT — Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ravenscroft, Feldstein Apartments, Green Street, announce the birth of a daughter, Jennifer Lynn at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser. Mrs. Ravenscroft was the former Lois Ann Smiley.

Westernport Blacktop Work Slated

WESTERNPORT — The blacktopping of three additional streets here was authorized during a special meeting of Mayor Ray L. Wilt and members of the Council.

The work, which will be done by Carl Stickley of Keyser, will include Philo Avenue from Howard to Green Street; Maryland Avenue from Main to First Street and half of River Road, (350 feet of the north end.) Weather permitting the project will get underway the first part of this week.

In addition to this work the program will include the blacktopping of four other streets by the Cumberland Contracting Company.

They are Vine Street from Rock Street to Johnson Street; Johnson Street from Vine Street to Spruce Street and Wood Street north from Hickory Street.

Also 270 feet on Riordan Road from where the present blacktop ends. This work is also expected to get underway next week.

Officials of Potomac Fire Company 2 here held a conference with city officials during the meeting.

Church Women Planning Dinner

LONA CONING — The Women of St. Peter's Episcopal Church will hold a covered dish dinner Monday, May 8, at 6 p. m. prior to their election meeting.

Katie Schwindt was chosen to supervise the dinner.

A surprise kitchen shower was given Miss Elizabeth L. Atkinson by the Women of St. Peter's at their recent meeting in the Parish house.

The nominating committee presented as the slate of officers, Mrs. Leslie R. Miles Jr., president; Mrs. Richard B. C. Robertson and Mrs. Hugh S. Robinette, for secretary; Mrs. William J. Hutcheson and Mrs. Joseph W. Likens, for treasurer; Mrs. Lee F. Miller, for vice president; Miss Helen S. Smith, for devotions.

Victory Unit Will Meet Tonight

WESTERNPORT — A special meeting of Victory Unit, 155, American Legion Auxiliary will be held in the rear room of the post home today at 7:15 p. m. Any member who cannot be present is asked to contact Mrs. Vivian McKenzie or Mrs. Marie Lyons.

Mt. Savage Children Are Baptized

MT. SAVAGE — Donna Rae, Earlmont Louise, Phillip Patrick and Debra Dolores Bridges, children of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bridges, were baptized in St. George's Episcopal Church by Rev. William E. McGrew, rector.

Sponsors for the children were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long, Mrs. Joseph Brannon and Lloyd E. Wade.

Card Party Slated By Men Of Church

John B. Elliott is in charge of ticket sales. The Advisory Board members have tickets.

On Navy Cruise

MMC George R. Shaffer, USNR, is on a two-weeks cruise aboard the USS Bears. He is a member of Surface Division 5-9, Naval Reserve, Cumberland.

Primary Vote In Piedmont Due Tuesday

Election Set For May 8

PIEDMONT—The biennial primary of the Town of Piedmont for the nomination of a mayor and three councilmen will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the room at the north end of the Piedmont High School building.

The ticket selected will be on the official ballot for the election May 8.

Mayor Rodney Baker announced that he will seek the nomination as a candidate to succeed himself. The three councilmen whose terms expire this June are Sebastian Barabito, Elmer Shaver and Kingsley Skidmore.

Barabito and Skidmore have announced that they will seek the nomination for re-election. Shaver has not yet stated whether or not he will be a candidate for re-election.

The recent tussle over fluoridation and law enforcement has stirred up considerable speculation over what opposition, if any, will be encountered by present officials in their bids for re-election. No definite announcements have been made as yet by any others that they will be candidates for the offices.

At the coming election, a mayor will be elected for two years and the two candidates for council receiving the largest number of votes will be elected for four years. The candidate receiving the next highest number will be elected for two years.

Two years ago Councilmen Michael Lannon and James Bissett were elected for four years and hence are holdover members.

Mountaineer Folk Festival Opens June 29

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—The opening of the annual Mountaineer State Folk Festival here has been moved back a week, to June 29-July 1, it was announced Friday.

The postponement was made in order to coordinate the opening with the historical drama, "Honey in the Rock," at the new amphitheatre at nearby Grandview State Park June 27.

The announcement was made by Dr. Patrick W. Gainer, folklore author and professor of English at West Virginia University. Gainer is in charge of the folk festival, which is being held here for the third consecutive year.

The festival, presented by Gainer for nearly a dozen years, features authentic singing, dancing, exhibits and contests collected from West Virginia folklore.

The announcement was made by Dr. Patrick W. Gainer, folklore author and professor of English at West Virginia University. Gainer is in charge of the folk festival, which is being held here for the third consecutive year.

Keyser Student Obtains Honor

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Eston T. Leatherman of Keyser, a senior in agriculture, was one of 46 persons initiated recently into Gamma Sigma Delta, agricultural honorary at West Virginia University.

Among the alumni initiates was Charles Clement Teets, a Terra Alta cattle breeder.

Gamma Sigma Delta also presented three seniors recognition certificates for scholastic attainment. They were Regina Stento Harbert, Newburg, home economics student; Virgil LeRoy Wilkins, Mathias agriculture student, and Robert Eugene Brittain, Akron, Ohio, forestry student.

Barbara Ann Judy, Circleville home economics major, was one of three sophomores given recognition certificates by the same honorary.

The announcement was made by Dr. Patrick W. Gainer, folklore author and professor of English at West Virginia University. Gainer is in charge of the folk festival, which is being held here for the third consecutive year.

Interim Studies To Vary Widely In West Virginia

Alcoholism, Salaries Listed Among Topics

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Everything from alcoholism to salaries will be studied by the West Virginia Legislature's two permanent interim committees when they meet here Monday.

The studies are the result of several resolutions passed by the 1961 Legislature. The two-day meeting will be the first by the Committee on Government and Finance and the Commission on Interstate Cooperation since the Legislature adjourned over a month ago.

The resolution calling for a study of alcoholism in the state was made after a Senate-approved proposal to allow West Virginians to vote in 1962 on liquor-by-the-drink was killed in the House. A similar House resolution calling for the liquor referendum later was adopted by both chambers.

The salary resolution calls for a look into the justification of the salaries of some state officials. Other studies assigned the committees include:

—Feasibility of abolishing the state gross sales tax and substituting for it a corporate income tax.

—Child adoption and other procedures of the Department of Public Assistance.

—Utility rate procedures of the Public Service Commission.

—Whether revisions should be made in the present complicated formula for distribution of state aid to schools.

—The feasibility of creating a new state department of corrections to take over jurisdiction of prisons and reformatories.

—Whether it might be cheaper in the long run for the state to set up an insurance system itself for its property rather than having it handled by private agencies.

—The feasibility of turning over to the West Virginia University Medical Center facilities of Fairmont Emergency Hospital.

—Whether some of the state's various special revenue accounts might be eliminated.

Mt. Savage Alumni Meets Tomorrow

MT. SAVAGE — The Alumni Association of Mt. Savage High School will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the school.

Final arrangements will be made for a dinner in honor of the graduates of this year's senior class.

The meeting is open to all graduates according to Wilson Sweeney, chairman of the committee for arrangements.

Band Concert

MIDLAND — The Midland Parent-Teacher Association will sponsor a free band concert by the Lonaconing City Band at 7:30 p. m. April 26 at the school. The public is invited.

Beall To Stage Vocal Festival And Art Show

Dual Event Set For Friday Night

FROSTBURG — A combination art show and vocal festival will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at Beall High School.

This annual festival features all types of paintings of the art classes of Mrs. Lucille Cincquegrani and will be on display in the lobby from 7 to 8 p. m. and following the music festival which is under the direction of Miss Mary Robb and will feature the junior and senior choruses.

The paintings in the exhibit will be in the following media: oil, ink, crayon, charcoal, water color and pastels. Other projects of students from grades 8 through 12 include ceramics, mobiles, stencils, copper, enamel, jewelry, wood and soap carving and mosaics.

The numbers to be presented by the junior chorus include: "My Lord What A Morning" and "Were You There?" "Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Seen" Robert Harper, soloist; "Plenty Good Room" chorus; "The Green Cathedral" quintet; "Czech Dance Song", "Humoresque" and "Old Folks At Home" chorus; "Stranger To Paradise" Claudia Skidmore, soloist; "The Beautiful Blue Danube" chorus; "Blue Moon" Thomas Baucum, soloist; "Down In The Valley" and "Darlin'" chorus; "Anchors Aweigh" Lou Ann McCullough, dancer; "When You Wish Upon A Star" quartet; and "Hiking Song" with verses 3 and 4 written by Yvonne Montana, sung by chorus.

The senior high chorus will present the following: "As Ye Do It Unto These," "Buggy Ride" and "Ode To Song" chorus; "Go Down Moses," "Gigi" and "They Call It America" boys' glee club; "El Matador" Jeannine Richardson, soloist; "Sheep And Lambs May Safely Graze," "Clouds" and Victor Herbert favorites, girls' glee club; "Hi Lili, Hi Lo" and "Ride The Chariot" ensemble; "Deep Purple" Thomas Richardson, soloist; "Rock A My Soul," "May Night" and "The Sound Of Music" chorus.

The quintet includes Linda Arnold, Julia Edmunds, Carolyn Schriver, Rose Wade and Marjorie White; quartet, Alice Goodwin, Margaret Jones, Glenda Lucas and Barbara Milburn; Ensemble — Carole Callin, Francis Crowe, Sandra Fresh, Lynn Horner, Connie Loar, Gordon Carpenter, Allan Eisel, Keith Kerr, Joseph Michael and Thomas Richardson.

Accompagnists for the festival are: Eileen Llewellyn, Karen Rissler, Jeanne Richardson, Sandra Willetts and Thomas Baucum.

Inspectors Find Over $1 Million Undeposited

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Tax Department disclosed Saturday that two inspectors came up with $1,116,946.98 in undeposited checks and cash during an examination of the state auditor's office last January.

Inspectors Ira D. Davis and George B. Hildebrand, reported the money, most of it in checks, was found "in the files and on the desks of the various divisions" of the auditor's office.

State Auditor Denzil L. Gainer said, however, there is no comparison between the million dollar "find" and the $78,558 which Gainer said last month was discovered in a safe and desk.

The smaller sum included checks, cash and money orders which had accumulated over many years, Gainer said. The million dollars deposited after the inspectors' examination was "current and still being processed."

Many of the checks involved in the million-dollar apparently were only a few weeks old when finally deposited.

Hildebrand and Davis were called in for a routine examination of books left by State Auditor Litz McGuire after his seven-month tenure.

McGuire was appointed by former Gov. Cecil H. Underwood after the death of Auditor Edgar B. Sims. There had been no similar examination during Sims' 28 years in office.

Hildebrand said he was "surprised" to find that much money undeposited.

And Hildebrand's boss, chief inspector H. Thomas McCray, commented: "I should think that they would deposit daily." However, McCray added that frequency of deposits was up to Gainer.

All this is history, however, because under Gainer's new system of internal cash control, no money goes to the divisions where it could easily accumulate.

"All money coming to the department now is received by the cashier and deposited usually within a day or two," Gainer said.

Plan Demonstration

MT. SAVAGE — The Future Homemakers Club of the Mt. Savage High School is sponsoring a cooking demonstration at the Frostburg Gas Company office. The affair will be held April 25 at 8 p. m. The PTA and other interested groups are invited to attend.

Snyder Crowned "King" Of Ball

Lowell Snyder is crowned "king" at the annual Twirl "Gold Diggers" Ball of the Senior and Junior Future Homemakers of America at Valley High School in Lonaconing. Grey Getty, last year's "king," officiated. Standing beside the "king" is Carolyn Jean Stephen, his escort for the dance. At the right is Edward

Bailey, and his escort, Camille Steiding, who placed second in the contest. At the left are Marvin Miller and his escort, Rusty Dicken, who were the third place winners. Over 200 junior and senior high school students attended the dance in the school gym. Valley observed National Future Homemakers Week.

W. Va. Colleges Will Undergo New Survey

State To Study Needs, Standards

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education has taken steps to study the entire field of branch colleges following a report from the Council of State College Presidents.

Concord College President J. P. Marsh relayed to the board the intention of the West Virginia Association of College and University Presidents to make a study of branch colleges, including standards, needs and the question of accreditation.

The board noted that without such a study it could not grant approval to any college to establish branches. It then asked the presidents' association to draw up a preliminary report outlining what would be necessary to establish such branch colleges.

The board also noted that it had received a report that Marshall University hoped to start branches in Logan and Williamson next fall and that Bluefield and Concord colleges had been approached for branches in Welch.

Marsh said, however, it was his opinion that it would take at least a year's study to place the board in a position where it could approve branches for any college.

As a result of another council report, the board asked the presidents to get proposals from various insurance agencies for group health and life policies for employees and approved more liberal vacations for year-round employees.

1932 Show Picture Item Of Interest

KEYSER — A picture of the cast of "The World's All Right," which was presented in the old Music Hall in 1932, is creating a lot of interest among local people.

The picture is displayed in Elsie's window as part of the publicity for the 1961 Minstrel's which will be held Thursday and Friday, April 20 and 21 in the Keyser High School auditorium.

Some of the local persons in the picture are James Nichols, Charles Moon, James Leatherman, George Mills, Domineek Calamine, Jess Cheshire, Elsie Wells.

Boyd Oas, Grace Huffman, Peter Brill, William D. G. Rice, Marie Coffman, Abe Goldsworthy, Elmer Boyce, John Melvin, Gladys Galbraith, Genevieve LaRue, Glen Smith and others.

Central Elementary PTA Will Elect

LONA CONING—The election of officers will be held at the Central Elementary school Parent-Teacher Association meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m.

James D. Preaskorn, guidance counselor at Valley High School, who is planning for the Orientation Day for sixth graders to visit Valley High school on May 3, will be guest speaker at the PTA program at 7:30 p. m.

The annual covered dish supper will be served at 6 p. m. in the Central cafeteria prior to the program. Mrs. Matilda Steele, president, will be presiding.

Teachers will not have visitation in their classrooms because of the supper and program planned. Mrs. Ann Foote is program chairman.

Births Announced

FROSTBURG — Mr. and Mrs. John Stark, RFD 3, announce the birth of a son Saturday in Miners Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Peck, this city, announce the birth of a daughter Saturday in the same hospital.

W. Va. Board Of Education To Make Appointments

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Board of Education has two big job openings for which it will take applications at least until the middle of next month.

Board President Lacy Rice of Martinsburg said the board will accept applications at least until its next meeting May 18-19 for the job of superintendent of schools and president of West Virginia Tech.

Rice said that although Rex Smith was made successor to the late R. Virgil Rohrbough, it was understood that Smith's position as superintendent was temporary, at least until the board has looked over the field to make a permanent appointment.

Smith has said he is available for the position on a permanent basis.

Tech President William B. Axtell announced to his faculty Tuesday night that he had submitted his resignation effective at the end of the current school year. He gave no reason for the action.

During an appearance before the board Wednesday, Axtell said it was "not possible" to eliminate the non-technical program at the Montgomery school.

That was Axtell's answer to an earlier request from the board that he submit a plan for the elimination of the school's non-technical program.

"Even if the non-technical program could be eliminated, it would be necessary to maintain a faculty in the humanities for the engineering students," Axtell said. "There is a greater emphasis now on liberal studies."

Axtell said that what Tech needs to gain engineering accreditation is $600,000 for an addition to the engineering building and a $100,000 a year in operating funds.

Rice asked Axtell to embody those recommendations in a report to be submitted to the board at its next meeting.

Student Council Officers Named

KEYSER—Miss Helen Michael, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Michael, Keyser, and Chris Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin, also Keyser, were elected president and vice president respectively of the Keyser High School Student Council Monday.

Miss Sandra McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McDowell, and William Chidester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chidester, were unsuccessful candidates.

Before presenting their names for candidacy students must have maintained a C average during his high school career. The candidate for president must be a junior at the time of election and the vice presidential candidate a sophomore.

John Staggers is the sponsor of the organization.

Election Set For May 8

PIEDMONT—The biennial primary of the Town of Piedmont for the nomination of a mayor and three councilmen will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the room at the north end of the Piedmont High School building.

The ticket selected will be on the official ballot for the election May 8.

Mayor Rodney Baker announced that he will seek the nomination as a candidate to succeed himself. The three councilmen whose terms expire this June are Sebastian Barbarito, Elmer Shaver and Kingsley Skidmore.

Barbarito and Skidmore have announced that they will seek the nomination for re-election. Shaver has not yet stated whether or not he will be a candidate for re-election.

The recent turmoil over fluoridation and law enforcement has stirred up considerable speculation over what opposition, if any, will be encountered by present officials in their bids for re-election. No definite announcements have been made as yet by any others that they will be candidates for the offices.

At the coming election, a mayor will be elected for two years and the two candidates for council receiving the largest number of votes will be elected for four years. The candidate receiving the next highest number will be elected for two years.

Two years ago Councilmen Michael Lannon and James Bissett were elected for four years and hence are holdover members.

Mountaineer Folk Festival Opens June 29

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—The opening of the annual Mountaineer State Folk Festival here has been moved back a week, to June 29-July 1, it was announced Friday.

The postponement was made in order to coordinate the opening with the historical drama, "Honey in the Rock," at the new amphitheatre at nearby Grandview State Park June 27.

The announcement was made by Dr. Patrick W. Gainer, folklorist author and professor of English at West Virginia University. Gainer is in charge of the folk festival, which is being held here for the third consecutive year.

The festival, presented by Gainer for nearly a dozen years, features authentic singing, dancing, exhibits and contests collected from West Virginia folklore.

A rummage sale will be held May 5 and 6.

Following the business meeting a white elephant sale was held with Miss Harman the auctioneer.

Keyser Student Obtains Honor

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — Eston T. Leatherman of Keyser, a senior in agriculture, was one of 46 persons initiated recently into Gamma Sigma Delta, agricultural honorary at West Virginia University.

Among the alumni initiates was Charles Clement Teets, a Terra Alta cattle breeder.

The President's Foreign Guests

President Kennedy is a busy man these days as he works on his foreign policy. Foreign ministers and heads of state are beating a path to his door. Netherlands Foreign Minister Joseph M. A. H. Luns followed Mr. Macmillan into the White House, to talk over misunderstandings about the American boycott of New Guinea self-government ceremonies, the status of moves toward European unity, and other differences.

Then Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany arrived in Washington on a similar mission. Despite recent talks with Dean Acheson, the chancellor was worried by reports that the administration may reverse the Eisenhower decision to give NATO nuclear missiles. This and the increased emphasis on conventional and guerrilla forces have roused fears that the United States may be unwilling to use nuclear weapons against Russia if West Germany is attacked.

NATO military chiefs have also begun to meet in Washington on these and related problems. Meanwhile the Pentagon, under the do-it-yourself leadership of Secretary McNamara, is having staff studies all over the place with a view to tightening up organization and direction of all phases of military activity. Dr. Adenauer is concerned about how the coming changes will affect Germany.

President Sukarno is another figure who will be in Washington this month. U.S. relations with him have fluctuated widely.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Two Chinas

For some years the United Nations avoided a sharp split on the China question by maintaining a moratorium on its discussion. At the beginning of each session, it was decided not to discuss the admission of Red China. At first the vote was sufficiently large to make it a fixed policy. In recent years, as the membership of the General Assembly of the United Nations increased, the vote between those who favored debating the question and those who opposed it has been narrowing. The result is that the notion of a two Chinas is taking on new strength, despite the war in Laos. The fear is that the moratorium cannot be carried any longer.

The two Chinas idea is a British notion designed to assuage the feelings of Red China. It simply means that both the Republic of China (Formosa) and Red China will be members of the United Nations. The first mention of this idea appeared in an article by T. A. Bisson, in an Institute of Pacific Relations' publication as far back as 1943. The question arises as to which of these two Chinas is to hold China's permanent seat on the Security Council. Regarding this, no one has proposed a sound formula. The likelihood is that nobody has a solution.

Neither Taipei nor Peking likes the two Chinas idea. Each side regards it as an insult. Chiang Kai-shek holds that his government retains its seat in the United Nations because of the sacrifices it made in war, because of legitimacy, and because obviously Red China will be strengthened should it be granted a seat in the United Nations and would, because of this, make efforts to conquer the whole of Southeast Asia. Nationalist China wonders why, now that Red China is in an economically and morally weakened condition, the United States wants to hale it out of its troubles and give "face" to a regime that may topple. Chiang Kai-shek wrote of this: "The two Chinas talk in international circles today is the repetition of an old tune first played by American Communists . . ."

The British are worried about Hongkong which the Red Chinese can take in a few hours unless the United States fights for it. Only the American fleet in Asiatic waters can save Hongkong for the British if the Communists decide to take the port, which is the last vestige of British strength in Southeast Asia, apart from Singapore.

British trade in Hongkong and in Red China is not as satisfactory as it used to be. The British would like to act as honest brokers between the United States and Red China and earn the gratitude of each side. Ample gratitude from Red China might safeguard Hongkong. If the United States permits the two Chinas idea to gain strength at a time when we are beating the drums, if nothing else, concerning Laos, we shall be regarded as hypocrites and tricksters and we shall lose "face" all over Asia. The contradictions in our position cannot be understood or accepted by any Asiatic. We would become the laughing stock of Asia, as we did when we were defeated by Chen Yi in Korea. Boasting is not victory. To an Oriental unless there is a total victory, there is a defeat. We cannot risk another defeat.

However, many of those who have an important voice in the formulation of the foreign policy of the Kennedy Administration believe in a two Chinas concept as an easy and tricky way out of an unpleasant dilemma. They believe that Red China will not accept such an indignity and that therefore, the offer having been made and rejected by Red China, they are not at fault.

There are two possibilities of error:

1. Red China might fool them, accept the offer and throw the United Nations into turmoil.
2. Other Asiatic nations would regard the offer as evidence of American weakness and this would justify the adoption of an anti-American attitude by nations which already feel that this country does not live up to its promises.

Whether President Kennedy made any promises to Prime Minister Macmillan on this subject, I do not know. Only events will open the window to the truth. But this is certain, if we want to get out of Asia completely and finally, the pursuit of the two Chinas policy is the best way to do it.

'Yes - I'll Stop - Maybe, Perhaps, Possibly...'

Reds Ignore Human Welfare For Propaganda

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Not by any means the greatest "feat" in world history, but in many respects the biggest disgrace—this is another way to look at the successful launching of a man into outer space by the Soviets.

Millions of human beings in Russia live six to a room in slums and in hovels, while millions of others work in slave-labor camps. Billions of dollars that should be expended to lift the living standards of a nation are spent instead for one of the most spectacular propaganda stunts of all times.

For what else is it? Is human life improved because a small vehicle travels in the sky at about the same distance from the earth as New York is from Wilmington or Baltimore? Was human life any further advanced because in 1957 the first "Sputnik" sped around the earth in an hour and a half? Today the United States continues to have 22 "Sputniks" in orbit around the globe and the Russians have one. Has any human being felt any benefit from such stunts? President Kennedy stated, in a nutshell, at his Wednesday press conference the simple truth about the Soviet's cruel disregard of human welfare as it concentrates on propaganda stunts. He said:

"A dictatorship enjoys advantages in this kind of competition over a short period, by its ability to mobilize its resources for a specific purpose."

This is the real reason for the Soviet achievement in sending the first man into outer space. The United States could have done it even earlier if it had decided to take away from other necessary things the money to spend on space research. As it is, the people of the Soviet Union are deprived of the benefits of better living. It is significant that one of the big rewards to the new "hero of the Soviet Union" is that he will be permitted to have a four-room apartment for himself, wife and two children, instead of the two rooms he has heretofore been allotted.

Also, this same dictatorship, by concentrating so much money annually on military weapons, has caused the United States likewise to spend large sums. In the end, people everywhere suffer. Can it be said that a dictatorship which is responsible for such deprivation and such disregard of what is truly human welfare now deserves the plaudits of the world for having sent a man high into space before any other nation could do it?

President Kennedy put his finger on what ought really to be giving concern to the world—inventions that will help human beings to a better life. He rightly said at his press conference:

"I've said that I thought if we could ever competitively at a cheap rate get fresh water from salt water, that it would be, in the long-range interests of humanity which would really dwarf any other scientific accomplishment."

The President gave credit to the Russian scientists, but he emphasized also the truly sinister aspects of the Soviet concentration on propaganda stunts. He said:

"I do not regard the first man in space as a sign of the weakening of the free world. But I do regard the total mobilization of man and things for the service of the Communist Bloc over the last years as a source of great danger to us. And I would say we're going to have to live with that danger and hazard through much of the rest of this century."

As the President of the United States really sees it, therefore, the sending of a man into space

ALL KINDS OF BELLS—A freshman Congressman complains that he's beginning to behave like a fire horse. A ringing, bell galvanizes him into action regardless of where he is.

Rep. Charles A. Mosher, Ohio Republican, blames it all on the bell signals used on Capitol Hill to summon Congressmen to the House floor. In a letter to his constituents, he tells the story this way:

"At 9:30 a. m., a firebell-type of reminder sounds once through all the offices on Capitol Hill. It tells us there is going to be a session of the House beginning at 12 noon, so best get those letters dictated."

"At 11:45 a. m. the bells ring again (buzzer in the committee rooms), this time twice, to say that committee hearings now must close. The House is about to be in session. From then on, whenever the bells and buzzers sound in all offices, corridors and many nearby eating and refreshment spots on the Hill, all conversation ceases as everyone comes."

"Three bells is the signal for all members to hasten onto the House floor. It may mean only a quorum call, or a very important vote; no one can ever be sure. Some members often will dash the quarter-mile or so from their offices to the House chamber several times each day. It is the best physical exercise many members get."

Mosher went on to say that he has some additional bells to contend with. His day starts with the tolling of bells in a church steeple directly across the street on which he lives.

Ethyl Chloride Spray Cools Skin To Ease Pain

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The old ethyl chloride spray may be on its way back as a treatment for the discomfort associated with lumbago, stiff neck, menstrual cramps, kidney stones and other painful conditions. The method was used by physicians of a generation ago to freeze the skin prior to lancing a boil or opening a felon or an infected cyst.

Ethyl chloride is a highly volatile liquid that comes in a long glass tube with a special nozzle on top. When the valve is released, a fine spray is ejected which freezes the skin almost as soon as it strikes. The tissues remain numb long enough to make a painless incision.

An English surgeon, Maurice Ellis, found that cooling the skin relieved pain in a variety of muscular and colicky disorders. In treating lumbago, for example, he sprays the back in spurts for 20 to 30 seconds—just enough to cool but not to freeze the skin. The device is held 3 feet away and has a special nozzle to cover a larger area.

He reports that swelling subsided and acute pain was relieved quickly. A residual ache was noted by some but the majority were so helped they went home to recuperate or returned to work.

During the last nine years, this surgeon has used the remedy to ease the pain of stiff neck, kidney stones, migraine, menstrual cramping, and sore muscles. His theory is that the cold sensation is picked up by the nerves of the skin and relayed to the brain. Here a conflict develops between the pain and the cold impulses; the cold wins and pain impulses are obliterated. When this occurs, muscle spasm disappears and the parts relax and feel comfortable.

Pain impulses often can be eliminated by injecting procaine into a sore and stiff muscle. Regardless of how it works, the use of an ethyl chloride spray is harmless and worth considering.

Eichmann Trial Opens Old Wounds As Israel Observes Anniversary

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Quite a few non-Jews plus a considerable number of Jews are questioning the wisdom of trying Adolf Eichmann at this late date. They argue that the trial highlights the spirit of revenge and that old wounds had best be forgotten.

I don't know that any non-Jew is competent to pass judgment on this question, and as a non-Jew I certainly don't feel qualified. But last summer when Tuvia Friedman, the man who hounded Eichmann, came to stay with me for a short time, I did get some deep insight into the reasons why so many Jews demand that Eichmann be tried. The reasons are set forth in Friedman's book, "The Hunter," more eloquently than I could begin to give them; reasons which can only come from a man who has lived through the torture and the horror of those Nazi concentration camps—and survived.

Such a survivor is qualified to speak.

But I also believe that on this, the 13th anniversary of Israel, the non-Jewish world should remember the age-old wandering of the Jews and the suffering which finally induced them to come back to their Promised Land and fight for it and weld it into a state. This is history necessary for an understanding of why the murder of 6,000,000 Jews is being tried.

"They Were Ten"

It so happens that a motion picture giving some of this history is opening in New York this week—the first picture ever shot in the Hebrew language. It's called "They Were Ten," and it tells the story of the first Jewish immigrants to Palestine back in the 1880's. This was about the same time that some portions of our West were being developed, and the problems of the desert frontier were about the same. They were days of outlaws and rustlers, when a man could solve almost any question with courage, a fast horse, and a quick draw.

But the interesting fact, in relation to the Eichmann trial, is that the first settlers of Israel were driven out of Russia by the Pogroms, just as Jews were driven out of Germany in the Hitler era. Those early immigrants were students who abandoned their homes and families and a bleak future in Russia to settle in a part of the already decaying Turkish Empire.

They walked from the port of Jaffa to Galilee where the best known of all Jews lived as a boy and where He walked on the water. Here these students settled on a rocky hilltop surrounded by alien and suspicious Arab villages, not unlike the Indian tribes of Custer's day.

The film is based on historical events taken from a diary kept by one of the settlers. The diary shows that peace did come to the Arabs and those early Jewish settlers.

Threatening Arabs

Baruch Diner, producer of "They Were Ten," describes an exciting and, for a while, dangerous incident during the shooting of the film. His camera crew was unloading its equipment in the Arab village of Arraba in western Galilee when it was surrounded by 200 Arabs.

Most Americans don't realize that many Arabs live in Israel and are Israeli citizens. For the most part they get along pretty well with the Jews, but in this case the Arabs of Arraba threatened to destroy Diner's expensive camera equipment.

Reason was that they thought the "They Were Ten" crew was part of the "Exodus" crew. Otto Preminger had been shooting his famous picture a few weeks before, and Arab Communists had been spreading the rumor that "Exodus" was anti-Arab.

"We told them we had nothing to do with 'Exodus,'" Diner recalled, "but they wouldn't believe us. More and more people came shouting and waving clubs and it seemed they would attack at any moment. It was 20 miles to the nearest police station, and there was no telephone. I am not ashamed to admit that I was scared."

Suddenly Diner had an idea. He raised the script high over his head to get attention and told them he would prove that he had nothing to do with "Exodus" by reading the script.

"I then read a dramatic scene in which an Arab Sheikh helps the Jews who are freezing to death in the winter cold. They listened tensely as I acted out the various characters in the scene. When I was through, the gang leader, a Sheikh himself, said he wanted to play that part!"

Healing The Wounds

When the police arrived an hour later, they found the Arab mob and the crew of "They Were Ten" in the midst of shooting a tremendous mass scene with all the villagers in the frame of the camera, demonstrating in real life how peoples of different religion and different race can live together.

It may take a good many years for the wounds left from the murder of 6,000,000 Jews to heal. It may take more years for the suspicion and hatred fanned by Gamal Abdel Nasser to be forgotten.

But, as the late Chief Rabbi of Jerusalem once reminded me, the Jews and the Arabs are cousins. Both are descended from Abraham. And, as he also pointed out, the day will come when these two peoples will obey the bidding of the Lord in Isaiah 19, "Blessed Be Egypt, my people, and Syria, the work of my hands, and Israel, mine inheritance."

The greatest hope the world can have for Israel on its 13th birthday and for the Jewish people is that the memories of Eichmann's murders may soon be over and the prediction of the prophet Isaiah soon come true.

The lawyers and judges of the land point to our jury system with pride while, in secret, they despise it. Offstage, the jokes about the "twelve good men and true" are vicious. In civil cases, the juries vote exorbitant sums for minor injuries; in criminal cases, they extend mercy in cases where premeditated murder has been proved.

Some years ago, part of my reportorial beat was Sing Sing prison and I was assigned to the death house. Ergo — I'm opposed to capital punishment. A human being with a functioning heart and mind and eyes walks into a room and, in a few minutes, you watch him stiffen against the straps and see the pale blue smoke come out of the back of his hands.

I'm opposed, which is why I could not sit on a jury in a capital case. However, as long as execution is on the books, it should be voted by juries whenever a first degree murder indictment is proved beyond doubt, coupled with time for premeditation on the part of the defendant. The juries in the Finch case and the Peel case voted mercy.

My opinion has no standing in law. In each of the three Finch trials, it seems to me, the prosecution proved that the lovers — Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carol Tregoff — came to the home of Mrs. Finch to kill her. The doctor had to chase her down a garden path to do it.

The first jury forgot its duty entirely and became embroiled in a fight about bigotry and race hate. The second one was too confused to do anything; the third convicted the doctor on a first degree charge, the woman on second degree, and gave them both the same sentence — life.

Finch's reaction was cynical. "We'll fight it, darling. We're still alive." That's more than you can say for Mrs. Finch.

In the Peel case in Florida, the members of the jury said afterward that they had no doubt about guilt. It was a matter of punishment that concerned them. Almost magically, six men wanted to send Judge Peel to the electric chair; six wanted to give him life imprisonment.

The six who wanted to extend mercy put it on the line: If you want to fight, we'll sit here and fight right through the weekend. The six who favored the chair realized that tomorrow was Good Friday and Sunday was Easter Sunday. They capitulated.

The two trials must have cost the states of California and Florida a million dollars in salaries, time and services, not counting the cost of maintaining the three defendants in prison. It is a costly process, in addition to representing a victory for the defense. In both states, the guilty are eligible for parole in seven years or less.

A prosecutor told John Pennekamp, columnist of The Miami Herald, that he thought that the Peel case was "over-prosecuted." It wasn't. State Attorney Phil O'Connell presented his evidence vigorously and in proper order. Two murderers sat on the stand and told how they drowned Judge and Mrs. Chillingworth for "Joe Peel."

The murderers had no motive other than that. They did not know the Chillingworths and Peel had to point out the victim to them. O'Connell's rebuttal witnesses, Florida Sheriffs Bureau agents, listened behind a door as O'Connell bargained for his life with O'Connell five years after the murders.

No, the consideration in this case was exactly what the jurors said it was: they wanted to get home. They didn't want to spend Easter weekend in a room. It comes down to creature comfort.

Someday, the American Bar Association will recommend a fairly uniform criminal code so that guilt, and not punishment, become the province of the American jury. Under the current system, men get away with murder. The judge is reduced in stature to that of a legalistic umpire. The defense seems to fight harder for a mistrial or reversible error, than for acquittal.

One of the items the Bar Association might recommend to the 50 states is that anyone convicted of first degree murder shall not be eligible for parole for 20 years. The electric chair and the gas chamber have not cut crime. No one kills without thinking that he is too clever to be caught. A long time in a cell keeps them from trying again.

In Miami a week ago, William Allsopp was summoned to duty on a murder jury. John Cross is the defendant. Allsopp had a good excuse. He is dead. John Cross is charged with killing him . . .

The President's Foreign Guests

President Kennedy is a busy man these days as he works on his foreign policy. Foreign ministers and heads of state are beating a path to his door. Netherlands Foreign Minister Joseph M. A. H. Luns followed Mr. Macmillan into the White House, to talk over misunderstandings about the American boycott of New Guinea self-government ceremonies, the status of moves toward European unity, and other differences.

Then Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany arrived in Washington on a similar mission. Despite recent talks with Dean Acheson, the chancellor was worried by reports that the administration may reverse the Eisenhower decision to give NATO nuclear missiles. This and the increased emphasis on conventional and guerrilla forces have aroused fears that the United States may be unwilling to use nuclear weapons against Russia if West Germany is attacked.

NATO military chiefs have also begun to meet in Washington on these and related problems. Meanwhile the Pentagon, under the do-it-quick leadership of Secretary McNamara, is having staff studies all over the place with a view to tightening up organization and direction of all phases of military activity. Dr. Adenauer is concerned about how the coming changes will affect Germany.

President Sukarno is another figure who will be in Washington this month. U.S. relations with him have fluctuated widely.

These Days

Two Chinas

For some years the United Nations avoided a sharp split on the China question by maintaining a moratorium on its discussion. At the beginning of each session, it was decided not to discuss the admission of Red China. At first the vote was sufficiently large to make it a fixed policy. In recent years, as the membership of the General Assembly of the United Nations increased, the vote between those who favored debating the question and those who opposed it has been narrowing. The result is that the notion of a two Chinas is taking on new strength, despite the war in Laos. The fear is that the moratorium cannot be carried any longer.

The two Chinas idea is a British notion designed to assuage the feelings of Red China. It simply means that both the Republic of China (Formosa) and Red China will be members of the United Nations. The first mention of this idea appeared in an article by T. A. Bisson, in an Institute of Pacific Relations' publication as far back as 1943. The question arises as to which of these two Chinas is to hold China's permanent seat on the Security Council. Regarding this, no one has proposed a sound formula. The likelihood is that nobody has a solution.

Neither Taipei nor Peking likes the two Chinas idea. Each side regards it as an insult. Chiang Kai-shek holds that his government retains its seat in the United Nations because of the sacrifices it made in war, because of legitimacy, and because obviously Red China will be strengthened should it be granted a seat in the United Nations and would, because of this, make efforts to conquer the whole of Southeast Asia. Nationalist China wonders why, now that Red China is in an economically and morally weakened condition, the United States wants to hale it out of its troubles and give "face" to a regime that may topple. Chiang Kai-shek wrote of this: "The two Chinas talk in international circles today is the repetition of an old tune first played by American Communists . . ."

The British are worried about Hongkong which the Red Chinese can take in a few hours unless the United States fights for it. Only the American fleet in Asiatic waters can save Hongkong for the British if the Communists decide to take the port, which is the last vestige of British strength in Southeast Asia, apart from Singapore.

British trade in Hongkong and in Red China is not as satisfactory as it used to be. The British would like to act as honest brokers between the United States and Red China and earn the gratitude of each side. Ample gratitude from Red China might safeguard Hongkong.

If the United States permits the two Chinas idea to gain strength at a time when we are beating the drums, if nothing else, concerning Laos, we shall be regarded as hypocrites and tricksters and we shall lose "face" all over Asia. The contradictions in our position cannot be understood or accepted by any Asiatic. We would become the laughing stock of Asia, as we did when we were defeated by Chen Yi in Korea. Boasting is not victory. To an Oriental unless there is a total victory, there is a defeat. We cannot risk another defeat.

However, many of those who have an important voice in the formulation of the foreign policy of the Kennedy Administration believe in a two Chinas concept as an easy and tricky way out of an unpleasant dilemma. They believe that Red China will not accept such an indignity and that therefore, the offer having been made and rejected by Red China, they are not at fault.

There are two possibilities of error:

1. Red China might fool them, accept the offer and throw the United Nations into turmoil.
2. Other Asiatic nations would regard the offer as evidence of American weakness and this would justify the adoption of an anti-American attitude by nations which already feel that this country does not live up to its promises.

Whether President Kennedy made any promises to Prime Minister Macmillan on this subject, I do not know. Only events will open the window to the truth, but this is certain, if we want to get out of Asia completely and finally, the pursuit of the two Chinas policy is the best way to do it.

Reds Ignore Human Welfare For Propaganda

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Not by any means the greatest "feat" in world history, but in many respects the biggest disgrace—this is another way to look at the successful launching of a man into outer space by the Soviets.

Millions of human beings in Russia live six to a room in slums and in hovels, while millions of others work in slave-labor camps. Billions of dollars that should be expended to lift the living standards of a nation are spent instead for one of the most spectacular propaganda stunts of all times.

For what else is it? Is human life improved because a small vehicle travels in the sky at about the same distance from the earth as New York is from Wilmington or Baltimore? Was human life any further advanced because in 1957 the first "Sputnik" sped around the earth in an hour and a half? Today the United States continues to have 22 "Sputniks" in orbit around the globe and the Russians have one. Has any human being felt any benefit from such stunts? President Kennedy stated, in a nutshell, at his Wednesday press conference the simple truth about the Soviet's cruel disregard of human welfare as it concentrates on propaganda stunts. He said:

"A dictatorship enjoys advantages in this kind of competition over a short period, by its ability to mobilize its resources for a specific purpose."

This is the real reason for the Soviet achievement in sending the first man into outer space. The United States could have done it even earlier if it had decided to take away from other necessary things the money to spend on space research. As it is, the people of the Soviet Union are deprived of the benefits of better living. It is significant that one of the big rewards to the new "hero of the Soviet Union" is that he will be permitted to have a four-room apartment for himself, wife and two children, instead of the two rooms he has heretofore been allotted.

Also, this same dictatorship, by concentrating so much money annually on military weapons, has caused the United States likewise to spend large sums. In the end, people everywhere suffer. Can it be said that a dictatorship which is responsible for such deprivation and such disregard of what is truly human welfare now deserves the plaudits of the world for having sent a man high into space before any other nation could do it?

President Kennedy put his finger on what ought really to be giving concern to the world—inventions that will help human beings to a better life. He rightly said at his press conference:

"I've said that I thought that if we could ever competitively at a cheap rate get fresh water from salt water, that it would be, in the long-range interests of humanity which would really dwarf any other scientific accomplishment."

The President gave credit to the Russian scientists, but he emphasized also the truly sinister aspects of the Soviet concentration on propaganda stunts. He said:

"I do not regard the first man in space as a sign of the weakening of the free world. But I do regard the total mobilization of man and things for the service of the Communist Bloc over the last years as a source of great danger to us. And I would say we're going to have to live with that danger and hazard through much of the rest of this century."

As the President of the United States really sees it, therefore, the sending of a man into space around the earth gets big headlines and is exploited by Nikita Khrushchev throughout the world as a vindication of Communism, but, after all, viewed in its true light, the episode only emphasizes what a dictatorship can do with the fruits of the labor of its enslaved citizens.

America invented the first airplane but not the first jet. America perfected the first atom bomb, too, but who can exploit over that? Inventions that help humanity—like the Salk Vaccine or the cure for yellow fever or the eventual cure for cancer—these are achievements that can mean much for mankind. But as for advances in flying, the Soviets know that sending the U-2's across Russia twelve miles above ground for nearly four years was indeed real progress in the field of reconnaissance and protection against attack. The U-2 has been replaced now by new "satellites" which can photograph today as well as did the U-2.

So goes the race in inventions. In the not-far-distant future, the United States, too, will be sending a man around the world a couple hundred miles above ground. Some day also there'll be a flight to the moon and to other planets. But, as a practical matter, these stunts cost vast sums and the question is whether humanity can afford them.

Research for stunts could be relatively inexpensive, of course, if money spent for all armament were materially diminished. Hence, the biggest achievement to look forward to is some way to talk to all the Russian people at one time and to persuade them to get rid of the dictatorship that terrifies the world and inflicts misery on human beings everywhere. As for "discoveries," the biggest of all times is still that of Christopher Columbus, who found the land where freedom and liberty can flourish as it does today. Some day the Russian people, too, can enjoy the benefits of that same discovery.

Under the current system, men get away with murder. The judge is reduced in stature to that of a legalistic umpire. The defense seems to fight harder for a mistrial or reversible error, than for acquittal.

One of the items the Bar Association might recommend to the 50 states is that anyone convicted of first degree murder shall not be eligible for parole for 20 years. The electric chair and the gas chamber have not cut crime. No one kills without thinking that he is too clever to be caught. A long time in a cell keeps them from trying again.

In Miami a week ago, William Allsopp was summoned to duty on a murder jury. John Cross is the defendant. Allsopp had a good excuse. He is dead. John Cross is charged with killing him . . .

Ethyl Chloride Spray Cools Skin To Ease Pain

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dollen

The old ethyl chloride spray may be on its way back as a treatment for the discomfort associated with lumbago, stiff neck, menstrual cramps, kidney stones and other painful conditions. The method was used by physicians of a generation ago to freeze the skin prior to lancing a boil or opening a felon or an infected cyst.

Ethyl chloride is a highly volatile liquid that comes in a long glass tube with a special nozzle on top. When the valve is released, a fine spray is ejected which freezes the skin almost as soon as it strikes. The tissues remain numb long enough to make a painless incision.

An English surgeon, Maurice Ellis, found that cooling the skin relieved pain in a variety of muscular and colicky disorders. In treating lumbago, for example, he sprays the back in spurts for 20 to 30 seconds—just enough to cool but not to freeze the skin. The device is held 3 feet away and has a special nozzle to cover a larger area.

He reports that swelling subsided and acute pain was relieved quickly. A residual ache was noted by some but the majority were so helped they went home to recuperate or returned to work.

During the last nine years, this surgeon has used the remedy to ease the pain of stiff neck, kidney stones, migraine, menstrual cramping, and sore muscles. His theory is that the cold sensation is picked up by the nerves of the skin and relayed to the brain. Here a conflict develops between the pain and the cold impulses; the cold wins and pain impulses are obliterated. When this occurs, muscle spasm disappears and the parts relax and feel comfortable.

Pain impulses often can be eliminated by injecting procaine into a sore and stiff muscle. Regardless of how it works, the use of an ethyl chloride spray is harmless and worth considering.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A spry old geezer of 80 suddenly decided to marry blonde maid of 17. The clergyman took one look at the pair, and observed, "The font is at the other end of the church."

"What do I want with the font?" queried the old gent. "Oh, I beg your pardon," said the clergyman with a straight face. "I thought you had brought your grandchild to be christened."

A Chicago philatelist tried to collect an overdue bill from one of his mail order customers. Back came this irate reply: "I never sent for any of your daf stamps, and if so, you never sent them. If you did I returned them to you, but if I didn't, I won't." The philatelist, no fool he, stamped the account "Paid" and let it go at that.

"Of course I trust my husband," maintained the wife of a celebrated matinee idol stoutly, "and would you like to know why? Because I never let the so-and-so out of my sight!"

Cumberland To Vie 24th Year; Garrett Team Is Possibility

Westernport, Frostburg and Cumberland will field American Legion junior baseball teams this season and there is a possibility Garrett County will join the Mountain District circuit.

George Zegles, Mountain District baseball chairman, made this announcement last evening following a meeting of district post representatives with Robert Koch, of Baltimore, Maryland Department baseball chairman yesterday at the American Legion Home in Oakland.

Farrady Post, represented by attorney John C. Sullivan, announced that it definitely will have a team this season as did Vincent Laffey, commander of Victory Post, Westernport.

Field Team 24th Year

Fort Cumberland Post, represented by Zegles, has been going it alone since 1938, and the local post will have a team for the 24th year. The national Legion baseball program was inaugurated in 1926 and the local post made its bow in 1928. The program here did a fadeout in 1935 but was revived in 1946 and has been carried on for 15 consecutive years.

Grantsville and Oakland posts may combine this season to give the league four teams this season. The posts have enlisted the aid of Dick Travis, of Southern High School, of Oakland, to help organize a Garrett County team.

Final plans for the league season will be formulated at the next meeting to be held the first week in May at Westernport, Zegles said. The Mountain District League season will get under way the week of June 4.

Change Age Limit

The age limit has been changed to Legion junior baseball this year. A boy born January 1, 1943 or thereafter is eligible. If he becomes 18 this year while in school he is eligible but if he has graduated he is not.

The regional playoffs will be held the last week in July between the top teams of Mountain and Western Maryland districts on the latter's field. The playoffs were staged here last year and Francis Scott Key Post of Frederick won, 6-4 and 5-3.

The Maryland department finals, a double elimination affair, will be held at College Park, August 3, 4 and 5.

The regional tourney which attracts winners of four states and the District of Columbia is set for College Park the last week in August. Hastings, Neb., is the site for the Legion Little World Series this year.

Giants Defeat Phillies, 5-3

Jones Is Winner With O'Dell Assist

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Billy O'Dell bailed Sam Jones out of a ninth inning jam to assure the San Francisco Giants a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday and first place in the National League.

O'Dell took over after Jones, who posted his first win of the season, had committed two wild pitches and hit a batter as the Phillies scored one run and loaded the bases with one out. Then the left-handed O'Dell made pinch hitter Bobby Del Greco hit back to the box to start a game-ending double-play.

The Giants pounded Roberts for two doubles and a single in the first inning where they scored three of their runs. Harvey Kuenn's double tallied Felipe Alou, who had led off with a single. After an intentional pass to Willie Mays and a fielder's choice by McCovey, Cepeda drove in two more runs with a two-bagger to right center. He was retired trying to stretch the hit to a triple.

"Kicking Duel" Mars Dodgers Win Over Bucs

Umpire, Durocher Battle In 13-6 Tilt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers broke a three-game losing streak by clobbering Pittsburgh 13-6 Sunday in a game that produced a show-stopping duel between Leo Durocher and umpire Jocko Conlan.

It was the volatile Durocher's first full-blown run in with an umpire since he returned to baseball this season as a Dodger coach. He was tossed out of the game.

The Dodgers got to five Pirate pitchers for 14 hits, including home runs by Tom Davis, Wally Moon and Norm Sherry. Starter Vern Law, Pittsburgh's ace right-hander, suffered his second loss in two starts.

The argument materialized in the fourth inning, after Dodger first baseman Norm Larker hit a high popout that landed in fair territory between home and first but bounced foul. Conlan, holding that no one touched it in fair ground, called it a foul. But Durocher, along with most of the Dodger dugout, contended Pirate catcher Hal Smith touched the ball before it went foul.

Durocher, thumbed to the clubhouse by Conlan for protesting too vigorously, sprinted from the dugout, rushed up to Conlan and kicked up some dirt in front of him. Observers couldn't tell whether Leo's shoe hit Conlan on the bounce, but everybody saw Jocko draw his leg back and land a shot on Leo's shin.

Durocher got a kick or two himself before he and Jocko were separated by other umpires.

Greensboro Open Is Won By Souchak

Snead Runner-Up, Trails By Seven

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Mike Souchak broke par for the fourth day in a row Sunday with a two-under 69 that gave him a 276 total and clinched the $22,500 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament by seven shots over runner-up Sam Snead.

Souchak, who cruised out of Grossinger, N.Y., played around the front nine of the 7,000-yard Sedgfield Country Club course in three-under par 32 fashion to wrap it up early.

The victory, his first since Flint Mich., last July, was worth $3,200 to Souchak and moved him a step nearer his goal of qualifying for a berth on the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

Snead, who had won seven times and was defending champion, finished with 71 to win $2,100 runner-up money in the $22,500 tournament.

Mike Souchak 70-68-69-69—276, $3,200
Sam Snead 71-72-69-71—283, $2,100
Billy Maxwell 69-69-71-75—284, $1,650
Stan Leonard 74-69-73—285, $1,300
Charles Sifford 68-72-70-75—285, $1,200
Al Johnston 73-71-72-70—286, $1,100
Tommy Jacobs 73-71-72-71—287, $975
Peter Thomson 74-71-70-72—287, $975

Calvary EUB Wins Church League Memorial Award

Frank Shircliff Gets Davis Plaque; 360 Attend Dinner

Calvary Evangelical United Brethren's team and Frank Shircliff of Mapleside Methodist received coveted sportsmanship trophies at the annual dinner program of the Sunday School Basketball League Saturday night at St. Luke's Lutheran Church.

Calvary EUB was voted the Harry W. Dean Memorial Trophy for best sportsmanship exhibited by a team in the National Division of the 31-team circuit. The award was presented by Earl Nonnenmann, president of the board of directors of the YMCA.

Young Shircliff received a special individual award, and a loving cup was donated to Mrs. Cedric Miller, wife of the First Presbyterian Church coach, for her outstanding service to the team and to the league.

Approximately 360 persons attended the dinner which was served by the Men of St. Luke's. Floyd "Pete" Elliott, president of the church loop, introduced the guests in his role of master of ceremonies.

Grace Baptist's playoff and pennant winners in the American Division were awarded the Loyal Order of Moose trophy and the Lynn C. Lashley Trophy, the latter presented by Clifton Van Roby.

First Evangelical United Brethren received the First President's Trophy, donated by James W. Bishop, from Chester G. Payne, Allegheny High basketball coach. The award went to the National Division team winning the regular season pennant.

The Ernest B. Treat Trophy, awarded by Mr. Elliott, went to First Methodist for winning the National Division playoffs.

The individual sportsmanship trophy given to the Shircliff lad is a memorial plaque donated by Mr. and Mrs. Bishop in the name of Billy I. avis, a former church league player who died in a plane crash last December in Panama. The presentation was made by Mr. Nonnenmann.

Twins Bounce Orioles Twice To Grab First

Home Runs Pace 10-5, 6-4 Wins

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Minnesota Twins clouted home runs from start to finish Sunday for a sweep to finish Sunday for a start to a doubleheader with the Baltimore Orioles.

Shortstop Zorro Versalle poked an 11th inning homer with one on base to climax Minnesota's second victory 6-4. Outfielder Bob Allison knocked in seven runs in the opening 10-5 triumph with a grand slam circuit blow in the first inning and another into the stands with two on in the sixth.

Don Mincher chipped in with a four-bagger for Minnesota in the nightcap. He also tripled in a run.

The two victories gave Minnesota three out of the four-game series with the Orioles and a 4-1 overall record thus leading in the American League since being transferred from Washington.

The Orioles were left with only one victory in their first five games.

Thus the hungry Hawks, long time doormats of the National Hockey League, wrapped up their first Stanley Cup victory since 1938. It was also their first trip to the final round since 1944.

Evans' goal was his first since 1959.

Donovan Is Loser, Francona Homers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland, blanked for eight innings by Dick Donovan, exploded for five straight hits—including a home run by Tito Francona—in the ninth inning to beat the Washington Senators, 3-2, Sunday.

Donovan had a six-hit shutout going into the last inning. But Johnny Temple led off with his third straight single and Francona followed with a blast over the right field wall, about 340 feet away for two runs. Jim Piersall sent a sharp single to left and Willie Kirkland singled to right.

Manager Mickey Vernon then yanked Donovan in favor of Rudy Hernandez, who was greeted by Woodie Held's single, scoring Piersall with the third run.

The Senators scored their two runs in the third inning off Johnny Anton

Frostburg Wins Columbian Squires Cage Tourney

Bishop Walsh Quint Of Cumberland Cops Consolation, 81-20

Father Patrick J. Bradley Circle, of Frostburg, eked out a 42-41 decision over Marian Circle of Baltimore yesterday afternoon at SS. Peter & Paul gymnasium to win the championship of the Columbian Squires state basketball tournament.

The Frostburg team, coached by Father Regis Larkin, won via the forfeit route when Cardinal Mooney Circle of Mt. Savage failed to put in its appearance Saturday morning and eliminated Bishop Walsh Circle, of Cumberland, 29-28, Saturday night, to reach the finals.

Marian Circle advanced to the finals by trimming Patapsco of Catonsville, 51-19, and Notre Dame of Baltimore, 54-16, in Saturday contests.

Locals Win Consolation

Bishop Walsh Circle, of Cumberland, coached by Jimmie Collins and Bert Lawler, won consolation honors by routing Notre Dame Circle in the first game on the Sunday program by the score of 81-20. The Cumberland team won its first tournament game by disposing of St. Christopher Circle, of Westernport, 55-30, but dropped into the consolation round after bowing to Frostburg Saturday evening.

In Sunday's championship game, Frostburg led at the quarters, 9-7, 19-16 and 36-28.

Trio Gets 30 Points

John Winebrenner, Eddie Bahen and Michael "Mick" Delaney slammed in a total of 30 of the 42 points registered by Father Bradley Circle. Each player contributed ten points.

Paul Cashour was the "big gun" for Marian Circle with 11 field goals and 4-8 fouls for a total of 26 points.

Frostburg held a 17-16 edge in field goals and was outpointed 9-8 at the charity stripe.

In the consolation final, the Cumberland team, paced by James Young, who scored a total of 28 points, poured in 36 field goals and 9-12 fouls. Notre Dame Circle was limited to 17 free throws and converted 8 of 17 free throws.

Young Scores 14 Goals

Young dumped in a total of 14 goals while Eddie Mullany had eight baskets and 17 points for Bishop Walsh Circle.

Bill Peterson accounted for four of Notre Dame's six field goals and 13 of the losing team's 20 points.

The tournament shifts to Baltimore next year and will again be staged here in 1963.

Moss Is Victor In International Race

VIENNA (AP) — England's Stirling Moss, driving a Lotus-Bolide, won the International Automobile Race on the nearby Aspern Airfield. Wolfgang Seidl of Germany was second.

Moss was clocked in one hour, 12 minutes for the 150.1 kilometers (about 94 miles).

TOURNEY TROPHY WINNERS—Paul Cashour, left, of Marian Circle Baltimore, won the Most Valuable Player Trophy; Father Regis Larkin, center, coach of Father Bradley Circle, Frostburg, holds the Wilbert Firlie Memorial Trophy which went to the championship team, and Bill Peterson, right, of Notre Dame Circle, Baltimore, won the Sportsmanship Trophy, yesterday as the two-day Columbian Squires state basketball tourney ended yesterday at SS. Peter & Paul gym. The Frostburg quint defeated Marian in the championship game by the score of 42-41.

Paul Cashour Of Marian Gets Tourney MVP Award

Two Father Bradley Circle Players Make All-Tournament Team

Paul Cashour, scoring ace of Marian Circle, Baltimore, was voted the Most Valuable Player in the Columbian Squires state basketball tournament which ended yesterday at SS. Peter & Paul gymnasium.

Cashour scored a total of 70 points in three games—23 against Patapsco of Catonsville, 21 against Notre Dame and 26 in the final contest against Father Bradley Circle of Frostburg.

The MVP trophy was presented to Cashour by James Brailer, state chairman of the Columbian Squires.

William Peterson, of Notre Dame Circle, Baltimore, received the Sportsmanship Trophy donated by Vincent Leasure and the team sportsmanship award, the Father Patrick J. Bradley, Memorial Trophy, went to Patapsco Circle, of Catonsville.

All-Tournament Team

The five members of the all-tournament team, namely, Paul Cashour, of Marian Circle; Michael Delaney and Eddie Bahen, of Father Bradley Circle, Frostburg; Larry Patterson, St. Christopher Circle, Westernport, and James Young, Bishop Walsh Circle, Cumberland, received trophies donated by Chief Justice Toney Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

Frostburg's championship team took the permanent first place trophy, donated by Cumberland Council No. 586, Cumberland in memory of departed members of the council, Father Bradley Circle also received the Wilbert Firlie Memorial Trophy, donated by the Firlie Family. This large trophy must be won by the same team three times to become a permanent possession.

Casey Trophy To Marian

Hoak Fined $50 For Altercation

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Don Hoak, fiery Pittsburgh Pirate first baseman, has been fined $50 for a ruckus with umpire Ken Burkhardt in San Francisco and he will probably get another penalty for another beef with the same official here.

Hoak received a telegram Saturday night from National League President Warren Giles advising him of the $50 fine just before the Pirates began their game with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Olson Turned Down

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California State Athletic Commission again has rejected Bob Olson's request for reinstatement.

The commission ruled Saturday that Olson, former middleweight boxing champion of the world, was "unreliable" and couldn't be depended upon to appear for fights.

Segura, Cooper Win Pro Matches

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP) — Pancho Segura of Ecuador defeated Earl Buchholz, St. Louis, 6-1, 6-0 Saturday in a professional tennis match.

Ashley Cooper of Australia defeated Alex Olmedo of Peru 6-4, 6-4 in doubles. Buchholz and Cooper defeated Segura and Olmedo 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

Cardinals Trim Cincinnati, 5-3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ray Sadecki, a southpaw who will reach voting age in December, scattered seven hits to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Sunday.

The youngsters struck out seven and walked two in his first triumph of the season. His success gave the Cards the rubber game in their three-game series with the Reds.

Sadecki gave up single runs in the second, third and seventh innings. Two errors by Sadecki in the second turned a single by Jim O'Toole, the starting and losing pitcher, into a run-scoring hit.

Joe Cunningham's triple and Hal Smith's sacrifice fly scored the Cards' first run in the second inning and they took the lead for keeps in the third on White's single. Boyer's triple and Stan Musial's sacrifice fly.

How 45,000 companies help their employees buy security

The average American company is pretty busy tending to its own business. Yet many companies have sandwiched in a valuable service for their employees—the Payroll Savings Plan for U.S. Savings Bonds.

Through this plan, your payroll clerk sets aside a certain amount each payday for Bonds, buys them, and arranges to get them to you. It's completely automatic, and the easiest way in the world to save.

Save as much or as little as you wish

Employees can sign up to save as little as $1.25 a week. The average among the more than 8 million folks on the Plan is $20 a month.

All in all, 45,000 companies help their employees save about $2 billion in Savings Bonds a year—a lot of future homes, vacations, college degrees, and nest eggs for retirement.

Savings Bonds*

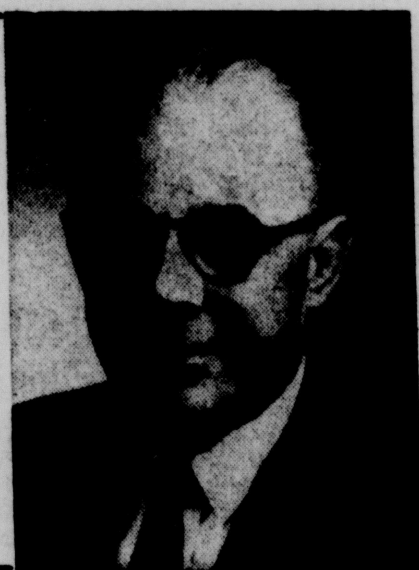

U.S. Savings Bonds are guaranteed by the Government to grow. $18.75 becomes $25 in 7 years, 9 months. In 10 more years, it becomes $36.25. Your Bonds can be cashed in anytime, with interest. And if they're lost or destroyed, the Treasury Department replaces them free.

Every Savings Bond you buy is an investment in Peace. What better way to help your government help you enjoy the things you're saving for.

Hats off to American Industry!

"American Industry has given the Savings Bonds Program its greatest success," says William H. Neal, National Director of the Treasury's Savings Bonds Program.

"45,000 American companies have sold many billions of dollars in Savings Bonds—at no cost to the taxpayer," says Mr. Neal. "By operating the Payroll Savings Plan, these companies, big and small, are helping to keep our country strong. At the same time, they're helping more than 8 million people save automatically for the things they want. America owes a vote of thanks to these companies for their outstanding contribution to the 20-year success story of the U.S. Savings Bonds Program."

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠AJS 3 ♥QAKIO 9 ♣J 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♥ Double 1 ♠ Double

Pass Pass 2 ♥ Pass

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. West has been trying to "paych" you out of your suit, but North's double of the one spade bid combined with West's escape to two hearts has exposed him. North has let West's runout come around to you for appropriate action and it is now incumbent on you to complete the exposure.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠J4 3 ♥AIO 6 ♣KQ 8 3 2 ♣7 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. If partner has suitable protection in the black suits he can now try three trump. The delayed "cue bid" does not show overvaluing strength since your original competitive raise has limited your hand.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠9 7 5 ♥Q4 3 ♣KQIO 6 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

Pass Pass Pass 1 ♠

Pass 1 ♠ Pass Pass

Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Obviously partner is unwilling to concede a part score effort to the opponent and is asking you to select one of the red suits. It is always irksome when your only four card suit has been advertised but this situation should not be regarded as a calamity. If you haven't a four card suit to bid, you must try to get along as well as possible with a three card suit. Whether you should bid two hearts or two diamonds is a matter of temperament. Our own taste runs to suit fit which they would surely do if you were ingenious enough to double one spade.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠A8 4 ♥A7 5 ♣AK9 2 ♣A 10 6

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♥ 2 ♥ 3 ♥ Pass

1 ♠ 2 ♠ 3 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—This is a very powerful hand facing a partner who is able to make a free bid and the possibilities are unlimited. A leap to three trump would be ultra-conservative and the recommended procedure is to make a cue bid of three clubs, postponing further aggressive action until partner is heard from again. Needless to say, you will not settle for anything less than game. No fleeting thought should be given to a call like two no trump, which in this sequence is not even forcing and could readily be passed by partner.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠KQ3 2 ♥AKIO 9 3 ♣10 3 ♣A6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass Pass 1 ♠

Pass Pass 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner has admitted possession of a trickless hand by failing to keep your opening bid alive, and no effort should be made to improve the contract. In fact, every inducement should be given the opposition to carry on the contest. If West should contrive to dig up a related spade raise, you might find it reason for rejoicing.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠K5 3 ♥4 3 ♣9 5 ♣JIO 9 8 7 5

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♥ Pass 1 NT Pass

Pass Double Pass 2 ♠

Pass 2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Obviously, partner has the hearts, which accounts for his pass over the opening bid. With two trumps and a doubleton, your hand may be regarded as tolerant of hearts and it is not recommended that you increase the contract by a return to clubs.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠AJIO 8 3 ♥7 6 5 4 3 ♣10 9 4 9

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♥ 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid?

A.—Two hearts. A direct and simple raise seems to us the most appropriate action although we would raise no strong objection to an immediate bid of four hearts. The preemptive bid might serve to inhibit the enemy's finding a minor suit fit which they would surely do if you were ingenious enough to double one spade.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠QIO 6 ♥AQ7 6 4 2 ♣QJ3 ♣K

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass

2 ♥ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Three trump. Although partner's rebid is not forcing, it is semi-encouraging, since he was at liberty to pass two hearts. The king of clubs looms as a highly important card and, since partner has shown no interest in the hearts, it may prove easier to run off with a conservative and the recommended procedure is to make a cue bid of three clubs, postponing further aggressive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission said Sunday the makers of "Amperol Tablets" had agreed to stop claiming they were effective in treating or curing any kind of arthritic or rheumatic conditions.

Eggplant is said to be a native of southern Asia, where it has been cultivated since remote orchids.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1-As South you hold:

AKJ 3 ♥ Q AK10 9 ♠ J 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♥ Double 1 ♥ Double

Pass ? 2 ♥ Pass

Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. West has been trying to "pitch" you out of your suit, but North's double of the one spade bid combined with West's escape to two hearts has exposed him. North has let West's runout come around to you for appropriate action and it is now incumbent on you to complete the exposure.

Q. 2-As South you hold:

AKJ 3 ♥ AK10 9 ♠ Q 8 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♥ 1 ♥ 2 ♥ 1 ♥

3 ♥ Pass ? 2 ♥ Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. If partner has suitable protection in the black suits he can now try three no trump. The delayed "cue bid" does not show overpowering strength since your original competitive raise has limited your hand.

Q. 3-As South you hold:

AKJ 3 ♥ Q 4 3 ♠ AK10 9 8 7 6 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♥ 1 ♥ 2 ♥ 1 ♥

3 ♥ Pass ? 2 ♥ Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Obviously partner is unwilling to concede a part score effort to the opposition and is asking you to select one of the red suits. It is always irksome when your only four card suit has been adversely bid but this situation should not be regarded as a calamity. If you haven't a four card suit to bid, you must try to get along as well as possible with a three card suit. Whether you should bid two hearts or two diamonds is a matter of temperament. Our own taste runs to two hearts, though with highly unreliable partners there may be a slightly greater measure of safety in bidding two diamonds, which is less apt to be supported by North.

Q. 4-As South you hold:

AKJ 3 ♥ AK10 9 ♠ AK10 9 8 7 6 5 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ 1 ♥ 2 ♥ 1 ♥

3 ♥ Pass ? 2 ♥ Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—This is a very powerful hand facing a partner who is able to make a free bid and the possibilities are unlimited. A leap to three no trump would be ultra-conservative and the recommended procedure is to make a cue bid of three clubs, postponing further aggressive action until partner is heard from again. Needless to say, you will not settle for anything less than game. No fleeing thought should be given to a call like two no trump, which in this sequence is not even forcing and could readily be passed by partner.

Q. 5-As South you hold:

AKQJ 3 ♥ AK10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass Pass 2 ♥ 1 ♥

Pass Pass 2 ♥ 1 ♥

Pass Pass 2 ♥ 1 ♥

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner has admitted possession of a trickless hand by failing to keep your opening bid alive, and no effort should be made to improve the contract. In fact, every inducement should be given the opposition to carry on the contest. If West should contrive to dig up a belated spade raise, you might find it reason for rejoicing.

Q. 6-As South you hold:

AKJ 3 ♥ AK10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♥ Pass 1 NT Pass

Pass Double Pass 2 ♥

Pass 2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Obviously, partner has the hearts, which accounts for his pass over the opening bid. With two trumps and a doubler, your hand may be regarded as tolerant of hearts and it is not recommended that you increase the contract by a return to clubs.

Q. 7-As South you hold:

AKJ 3 ♥ AK10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♥ 1 ♥ 2 ♥ 1 ♥

3 ♥ Pass ? 2 ♥ Pass

3 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two hearts. A direct and simple raise seems to us the most appropriate action although we would raise no strong objection to an immediate bid of four hearts. The preemptive bid might serve to inhibit the enemy's finding a minor suit fit which they would surely do if you were ingenious enough to double one spade.

Q. 8-As South you hold:

AKJ 3 ♥ AK10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ 1 ♥

2 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ 2 ♥

3 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ 2 ♥

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Although partner's rebid is not forcing, it is semi-encouraging, since he was at liberty to pass two hearts. The king of clubs looms as a highly important card and, since partner has shown no interest in the hearts, it may prove easier to run off with a game contract which requires just nine tricks.

Seabees Get 3.2 Score At Inspection

Naval Reserve Construction Battalion 5-7 (Seabees) of Cumberland achieved a 3.2 score Saturday during the annual inspection conducted by officials of the Fifth Naval District.

The officers and enlisted men were complimented by the inspection party for their excellent military bearing and score results.

Cmdr. Paul M. Arbogast said the senior member of the inspection board was Capt. Henry C. Shaid, district civil engineer and district public works officer, Fifth Naval District at Norfolk, Va.

Other members of the inspection board were Cmdr. Hilton K. Davis, Fifth Naval District Seabee Reserve program officer, and Lt. Clayton C. Myers Jr., assistant district CB Reserve program officer.

An observer with the inspection party was Captain Roger G. Withrell, national director of Seabee Reserve program of the Naval Bureau of Yards and Docks.

While in Cumberland Captain Shaid also inspected the local Naval Reserve Training Center on McKaig Hill. Commanding officer of the local reserve training facility is Lt. Michael J. Gallo, who recently reported for duty.

Besides Cmdr. Arbogast, Lt. Robert F. Varney of Landover Hills serves as executive officer; Lt. Winfield H. Adam is training officer; Lt. Cmdr. C. Louis Hallberg is administrative officer; and Lt. (jg) Maurice F. Treacy is active duty for training officers; and Lt. (jg) Thomas R. Kahl recently joined the unit filling the assistant training officer billet.

The unit drills regularly on the third weekend of each month. At present there are 39 enlisted members in the division. Many of these men travel great distances to attend drills, some from Hagerstown, Keyser and Somerset, Pa.

The division has several openings for young men interested in joining the Naval Reserve as construction recruits.

Bishop Busy At Four Services

Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, D.D., bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, had a busy day yesterday in Cumberland and Washington County.

Bishop Powell first was the celebrant at the 8 a.m. Holy Communion service at Emmanuel Episcopal Church. Then he hurried across town to officiate at the ground-breaking ceremonies for the new Holy Cross Episcopal Church at the intersection of Brookfield and Greenway avenues at 9:30 a.m.

Back at Emmanuel Church for the 11 o'clock service, he confirmed a class of children and adults as members of the Episcopal Church.

During the same service, Bishop Powell installed the Vestry and officers of Emmanuel Church who will serve until Easter Monday 1962. The officers are George F. Hazelwood, senior warden; William L. Wilson, junior warden; Thomas N. Berry, register, and Henry W. Price, treasurer.

The three new members of the Vestry are John E. Geare, W. Eric Gibbs and John Bestwick. Holdover members are Dr. Charles S. Beamer, George Young, Raymond R. Johnson, Guy O. Thompson, Harry Nelson and Robert Little Ebert.

Bishop Powell then hurried back to St. James School near Hagerstown for a 5 o'clock service.

State Fluoride Use In Water Leads Nation

It has been 10 years since the first use of fluoride in Maryland's drinking water and the State Health Department reported over the weekend that this leads the nation in the percentage of its population using fluoridated drinking water.

Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the department's Division of Dental Health, estimated that 72 per cent of Maryland's total population now drink water to which fluorides have been added.

They represent about 85 per cent of the people served by public water supplies.

In 1951, Hagerstown became the first Maryland community to add a fluoride compound to its water supply to reduce the incidence of tooth decay, Dr. Leonard said.

Last year, after seven years of fluoridation in Baltimore City, Dr. Leonard explained, the City Health Department there conducted a special dental survey of Baltimore school children.

It showed that six-year-old children who had been drinking fluoridated water continuously from birth averaged 75 per cent fewer permanent teeth attacked by decay than six-year-olds surveyed five years before.

No communities in Allegany County add fluorides to their water supply although the Mayor and Council of Cumberland went on record in favor of it some years ago.

Chestnut Trees Still Valuable

Even dead trees can have economic value.

Henry Sipe, Elkins, W. Va., assistant supervisor of the Monongahela National Forest in West Virginia, told members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club here Thursday that chestnut trees killed by blight 40 or more years ago are proving an economic asset for that area of West Virginia.

Mr. Sipe said there are about six privately-owned sawmills in the area near the Monongahela forest. The owners have found a ready market for the chestnut logs for use as fence poles and rails. They bring an excellent price on the eastern market.

A use for low-grade hardwood in the forests also has been found. These hardwoods, which bring only about half the price of pulpwood purchased by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke, are converted into charcoal briquettes. A new plant at Parsons, W. Va., has developed quite a charcoal briquette business.

Mr. Sipe cited these two illustrations to show the value of developing forest related industries in the Allegheny Highlands.

The forester told the Kiwanians that the Monongahela National Forest, which covers some 806,000 acres from Preston to Greenbrier County, operates in the black each year through selective timber cutting and other revenue producing practices.

Jerusalem Officials Quit In Water Row

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The lord mayor of Jerusalem's Jordan Sector, Rawhi Khatib, and members of the Municipal Council have resigned in a dispute with Jordanian authorities over water.

Khatib told reporters Sunday the resignation was to protest seizure by executive authorities of Jerusalem's Pools, 15 miles south of Jerusalem, from which water flows to the Omar Mosque and inhabitants of the Old City. The pools are owned by a Moslem supervisory council but have been run and maintained by the Jerusalem Municipal Council for 50 years.

Capehart Says JFK Gave Fidel Free Rein

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., said Sunday that President Kennedy strengthened Fidel Castro's grip on Cuba by asserting a policy of non-intervention in Cuban affairs.

Capehart, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Kennedy should have kept Castro guessing instead of telling a news conference that this country and its citizens would take no part in any attempt to overthrow the Cuban premier.

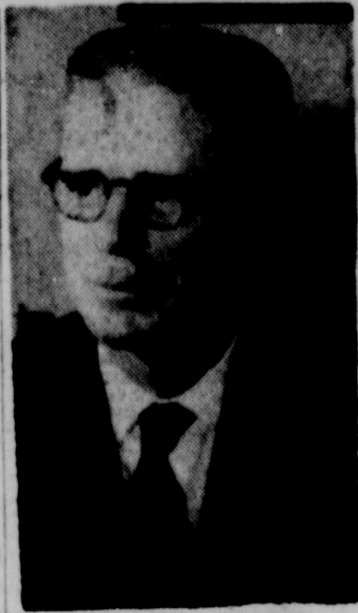

"He's practically saying to Castro that you've got free rein now, that the United States is not going to interfere with you and go ahead and do what you please," the Indiana senator said on a radio show.

Seabees Get 3.2 Score At Inspection

Naval Reserve Construction Battalion 5-7 (Seabees) of Cumberland achieved a 3.2 score Saturday during the annual inspection conducted by officials of the Fifth Naval District.

The officers and enlisted men were complimented by the inspection party for their excellent military bearing and score results.

Cmdr. Paul M. Arbogast said the senior member of the inspection board was Capt. Henry C. Shaid, district civil engineer and district public works officer, Fifth Naval District at Norfolk, Va.

Other members of the inspection board were Cmdr. Hilton K. Davis, Fifth Naval District Seabee Reserve program officer, and Lt. Clayman C. Myers Jr., assistant district CB Reserve program officer.

An observer with the inspection party was Captain Roger G. Withrell, national director of Seabee Reserve program of the Naval Bureau of Yards and Docks.

While in Cumberland Captain Shaid also inspected the local Naval Reserve Training Center on McKaig Hill. Commanding officer of the local reserve training facility is Lt. Michael J. Gallo, who recently reported for duty.

Besides Cmdr. Arbogast, Lt. Robert F. Varney of Landover Hills serves as executive officer; Lt. Winfield H. Adam is training officer; Lt. Cmdr. C. Louis Hallberg is administrative officer; and Lt. (jg) Maurice F. Treacy is active duty for training officers; and Lt. (jg) Thomas R. Kahl recently joined the unit filling the assistant training officer billet.

The unit drills regularly on the third weekend of each month. At present there are 39 enlisted members in the division. Many of these men travel great distances to attend drills, some from Hagerstown, Keyser and Somerset, Pa.

The division has several openings for young men interested in joining the Naval Reserve as construction recruits.

Bishop Busy At Four Services

Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, D.D., bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, had a busy day yesterday in Cumberland and Washington County.

Bishop Powell first was the celebrant at the 8 a.m. Holy Communion service at Emmanuel Episcopal Church. Then he hurried across town to officiate at the ground-breaking ceremonies for the new Holy Cross Episcopal Church at the intersection of Brookfield and Greenway avenues at 9:30 a.m.

Back at Emmanuel Church for the 11 o'clock service, he confirmed a class of children and adults as members of the Episcopal Church.

During the same service, Bishop Powell installed the Vestry and officers of Emmanuel Church who will serve until Easter Monday 1962. The officers are George F. Hazelwood, senior warden; William L. Wilson, junior warden; Thomas N. Berry, register, and Henry W. Price, treasurer.

The three new members of the Vestry are John E. Geare, W. Eric Gibbs and John Bestwick. Holdover members are Dr. Charles S. Beamer, George Young, Raymond R. Johnson, Guy O. Thompson, Harry Nelson and Robert Little Ebert.

Bishop Powell then hurried back to St. James School near Hagers town for a 5 o'clock service.

State Fluoride Use In Water Leads Nation

It has been 10 years since the first use of fluorine in Maryland drinking water and the State Health Department reported over the weekend that this leads the nation in the percentage of its population using fluoridated drinking water.

Dr. Richard C. Leonard, chief of the department's Division of Dental Health, estimated that 72 per cent of Maryland's total population now drink water to which fluorides have been added.

They represent about 85 per cent of the people served by public water supplies.

In 1951, Hagerstown became the first Maryland community to add a fluorine compound to its water supply to reduce the incidence of tooth decay, Dr. Leonard said.

Last year, after seven years of fluoridation in Baltimore City, Dr. Leonard explained, the City Health Department there conducted a special dental survey of Baltimore school children.

Mt. Savage Boy Seriously Hurt By Car

Michael Ritchie Is Hospitalized

A four-year-old Mt. Savage youngster was seriously injured yesterday evening when he apparently ran into the side of a car near his home.

The young boy, Michael Lynn Ritchie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ritchie, Old Row, Mt. Savage, is reported in "fair" condition at Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

Tfc. Joseph Stakem investigated the accident and reported the Ritchie boy apparently ran against the side of a car which was being operated by Calvin C. Thompson, 36, also of Old Row.

The youngster sustained severe lacerations of the scalp and face, a possible skull fracture and an injury to his left shoulder.

Tfc. Stakem said Mr. Thompson was backing his car off Old Row onto a parking space when the accident occurred about 6:45 p.m.

No charges have been preferred pending the completion of the investigation by Tfc. Stakem.

Criminal Cases, Appeals Begin This Morning

Two Local Youths Face Entry Charges

Several criminal and criminal appeal cases are scheduled to be heard this morning in Allegany County Circuit Court before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

The first trial will be heard on criminal information filed against two local youths on breaking and entering charges.

Charles William Cline, 18, of Paca Street, faces charges of breaking into the Economy Wholesale Company on Gay Street and the Maryland Theatre, and Ronald Alvin Sowers, 933 Glenwood Street, has been charged with breaking into the Maryland Theatre.

Two other boys involved in the Maryland Theatre entry, Earl Nixon, 916 Gay Street, and Robert C. Bryant, no permanent address, are being held in Allegany County Jail under $500 bond each to await action by the grand jury.

The criminal appeal cases include those filed by Stephen Lee DuVall, who was fined $250 and given a three-month jail sentence for failing to stop after striking a pedestrian.

Garthe W. Yonker appealed two fines of $250 for game violations and Everett Goss appealed a six-month sentence imposed on a petty larceny charge.

Other appeals include Leonard E. Kasecamp from Juvenile Court and Eugene Oldaker who appealed a six-month jail sentence imposed in Trial Magistrate Court. Also scheduled are appeals by Marshall J. Alexander for violation of parole and Mervin H. Kyle on three counts of petty larceny.

Two previous appeal cases which were set today have been dismissed by the defendants. These appeals were dropped by Donald R. Boyer, who was fined $25 on a motor vehicle charge, and Charles E. Whetstone, who was sentenced to 30 days on a motor vehicle charge.

Two other criminal appeal cases set today have been postponed until a later date. These cases involved Carmen L. Bishop and Glenn M. Sugars. Both were found guilty of motor vehicle charges.

City Telephone Users To Get 15-Cent Cut

Cumberland residents will be given a 15-cent decrease on their basic monthly telephone service bills and local businessmen will get a decrease of 90 cents as a result of rate schedule changes by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The reduction in rates for local residence and business monthly bills was announced Friday by the C&P Company.

Residents and businessmen in Westernport also will be given a reduction in their basic monthly service rates, but the amount of the decrease has not been announced.

The decrease in rates here came as a result in establishing rate classification after the Public Service Commission gave C&P permission to increase its annual gross income.

Most of the rates in other sections of the state increased, but here and in Westernport the monthly bill was reduced.

In other exchanges in Allegany County, the charges for business and residence main telephones were increased 10 cents per month.

Several other incidental changes were made in the new rate schedules which apply to this area.

They reported a woman's compact also was found at the site.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator, is investigating the report.

Vets Advised On Insurance

Veterans of World War II and the Korean War who retained their National Service Life Insurance are advised to be sure they have the right beneficiary listed on their policies.

The warning was issued by Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant state service officer of the Maryland Veterans Commission, who said many cases have been complicated because veterans had been mistaken about the beneficiaries on their policies.

Mr. Kilduff said many times beneficiaries change due to death, divorce and other reasons and veterans fail to notify the Veterans Administration of these changes.

Mr. Kilduff said forms are available for the purpose of changing the beneficiaries and may be obtained at his office on the first floor of the County Building on Union Street.

Finan Advocates Tawes Sign Obscenity Bill

Attorney General Thomas B. Finan has recommended that Governor J. Millard Tawes sign a bill restricting sale of obscene literature despite serious questions about its constitutional grounds.

The bill in question was introduced by Delegates Francis X. Gallagher, Democrat of Baltimore's Third District, and William Walsh, Allegany County Democrat.

Mr. Finan and Joseph S. Kaufman, his chief deputy, believe pre-emptive constitutional challenges weigh legal arguments against the measure. The Supreme Court struck down a similar bill last year.

This legislation provides a maximum fine of $200 or a maximum jail term of one year, or both. It is a misdemeanor under the bill to make available to a child under 18 material that is known to be obscene.

Opponents of the bill contend it is unconstitutional because it sets up two standards of obscenity.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow For Accident Victim

Services for William Maynard Bishop, 49, of Fairgo, who died Saturday in Sacred Heart Hospital of injuries sustained when he was struck by a car Friday night as he was crossing U.S. Route 220, will be conducted tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the Knight Funeral Home.

Conference Here Attracts Md. Educators

Dr. Brain Will Address Teachers

Eight representatives of the State Department of Education are scheduled to attend the all-day Allegany County conference of education starting at 9 o'clock this morning at Allegany High School.

They will include Dr. David W. Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent; Dr. Willis H. White, director of instruction; Herschel M. James, director, Division of Vocational Education; Paul E. Huffington, assistant director, Division of Vocational Education; Mrs. Mildred L. Sowers, state supervisor of elementary schools; Thomas W. Pyles and Lewin Wheat, state supervisors of high schools, and Andrew Mason, state supervisor of pupil personnel and guidance.

"Today's Challenges in Education" is the theme for the conference, which Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster hopes to continue as an annual affair.

Dr. George B. Brain, superintendent of public instruction in Baltimore City, will deliver the conference's chief address this morning on the conference theme in the Allegany auditorium.

Some 51 exhibits have been arranged in the Allegany gymnasium. After Dr. Brain's talk, the teachers, principals and supervisors will be divided into smaller groups for discussions and for visits to the educational exhibits.

Because all of the teachers, principals and supervisors will attend the conference, there will be no public school today. Classes will resume tomorrow after a three-day holiday weekend.

National Coin Week Will Be Observed

The Western Maryland Coin Club will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall and will make final plans for observing National Coin Week.

A proclamation for the observance which begins April 23 will be adopted by the Mayor and Council.

The club, which is sponsored by the City Recreation Department, will hold a public auction April 30 at 3 p.m. in the Jockey Club at Fairgo.

The club will also sponsor coin exhibits in a number of banks and other spots in observance of National Coin Week.

Eight new members have joined the club since the March meeting.

Benefit Musical To Open With Matinee Today

Scenery is in place and costumes have been checked for the Broadway musical, "Annie Get Your Gun," which will be presented today and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the Maryland Theater.

The Irving Berlin show is sponsored by Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, for the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. A matinee will be held this afternoon at 2:30.

Joseph F. Stakem, general chairman, urged high school students to patronize the afternoon performance since public schools are closed today for a teachers conference.

Six scenery changes were "hung" Friday night and Saturday by volunteer workers under the supervision of Harold C. Wickard, director; Richard Cook and Kenneth L. Sheetz, stage co-chairman, and Betsy Ross Rankin, advisor. Assisting were Thomas Seifert, Bernard McGann and Bruce DuVall.

There are 55 speaking and singing parts, and 166 costumes changes made available by a prominent New York firm. Among the 92-member cast is Stella C. Sykes who was commended by Mr. Stakem and John H. Mosner, co-chairman, for taking the part of Sally Marie Lance when illness forced the latter to drop the role of Winnie Tate.

Lead roles are portrayed by Dixie (Rafter) Thompson as Annie Oakie, and Gene Kidwell, and Frank Butler.

Mr. Stakem said the sale of tickets for the show will continue today and tomorrow in the lobby of the theater. Phone reservations will be accepted.

Surviving are a son, Donald R. Sincell, Oakland, and two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Haulenbeck, Oakmont, Pa., and Mrs. Adeline Ruckert, at home.

The body is at the residence, where services will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. by Rev. William E. Fox, pastor of St. Mark's Church. Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery.

Mrs. Sincell, Publisher, Dies At 90

Mrs. Lillian Byrne Sincell, 90, owner and publisher of the Oakland Republican weekly newspaper, died yesterday at her home, where she had been an invalid the past 14 years.

Mrs. Sincell also was an artist, and 12 of her paintings are displayed in churches in the area.

She was the widow of Benjamin H. Sincell and was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland.

Mrs. Sincell served as a Sunday school teacher at the church for a number of years and was active in foreign missionary work for the church. She also was instrumental in organizing the interdenominational school of missions which was active in Mt. Lake Park for 40 years.

Born at Kingwood, W. Va., she was a daughter of the late David and May (Byrne) Morris.

Surviving are a son, Donald R. Sincell, Oakland, and two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Haulenbeck, Oakmont, Pa., and Mrs. Adeline Ruckert, at home.

The body is at the residence, where services will be conducted tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. by Rev. William E. Fox, pastor of St. Mark's Church. Burial will be in Oakland Cemetery.

Keyser Carmen Are Pictured In B&O Magazine

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's car repair program at Keyser, W. Va., DuBois, Pa., and Chillicothe, Ohio, is featured in the April issue of the company's magazine.

The article points out that about 117 reconconditioned freight cars per work day are now being turned out by repairmen at Keyser and DuBois.

By March 15, the car program, begun early this year, had completed the reconconditioning of 4,776 cars, despite the interruptions caused by the snowstorms and unusually cold weather. Seventeen units of 45 men each or a total of 766 men, are now engaged in the repair program.

Mt. Savage Boy Seriously Hurt By Car

Michael Ritchie Is Hospitalized

A four-year-old Mt. Savage youngster was seriously injured yesterday evening when he apparently ran into the side of a car near his home.

The young boy, Michael Lynn Ritchie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ritchie, Old Row, Mt. Savage, is reported in "fair" condition at Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

Tfc. Joseph Stakem investigated the accident and reported the Ritchie boy apparently ran against the side of a car which was being operated by Calvin C. Thompson, 36, also of Old Row.

The youngster sustained severe lacerations of the scalp and face, a possible skull fracture and an injury to his left shoulder.

Tfc. Stakem said Mr. Thompson was backing his car off Old Row onto a parking space when the accident occurred about 6:45 p.m.

City Telephone Users To Get 15-Cent Cut

Cumberland residents will be given a 15-cent decrease on their basic monthly telephone service bills and local businessmen will get a decrease of 90 cents as a result of rate schedule changes by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The reduction in rates for local residence and business monthly bills was announced Friday by the C&P Company.

Residents and businessmen in Westernport also will be given a reduction in their basic monthly service rates, but the amount of the decrease has not been announced.

The decrease in rates here came as a result in establishing rate classification after the Public Service Commission gave C&P permission to increase its annual gross income.

Most of the rates in other sections of the state increased, but here and in Westernport the monthly bill was reduced.

In other exchanges in Allegany County, the charges for business and residence main telephones were increased 10 cents per month.

Several other incidental changes were made in the new rate schedules which apply to this area.

Vets Advised On Insurance

Veterans of World War II and the Korean War who retained their National Service Life Insurance are advised to be sure they have the right beneficiary listed on their policies.

The warning was issued by Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant state service officer of the Maryland Veterans Commission, who said many cases have been complicated because veterans had been mistaken about the beneficiaries on their policies.

Mr. Kilduff said many times beneficiaries change due to death, divorce and other reasons and veterans fail to notify the Veterans Administration of these changes.

Mr. Kilduff said forms are available for the purpose of changing the beneficiaries and may be obtained at his office on the first floor of the County Building on Union Street.

Criminal Cases, Appeals Begin This Morning

Two Local Youths Face Entry Charges

Several criminal and criminal appeal cases are scheduled to be heard this morning in Allegany County Circuit Court before Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

The first trial will be heard on criminal information filed against two local youths on breaking and entering charges.

Charles William Cline, 18, of Paca Street, faces charges of breaking into the Economy Wholesale Company on Gay Street and the Maryland Theatre, and Ronald Alvin Sowers, 933 Glenwood Street, has been charged with breaking into the Maryland Theatre.

Two other boys involved in the Maryland Theatre entry, Earl Nixon, 916 Gay Street, and Robert C. Bryant, no permanent address, are being held in Allegany County Jail under $500 bond each to await action by the grand jury.

The criminal appeal cases include those filed by Stephen Lee DuVall, who was fined $250 and given a three-month jail sentence for failing to stop after striking a pedestrian.

Garthe W. Yonker appealed two fines of $250 for game violations and Everett Goss appealed a six-month sentence imposed on a petty larceny charge.

Other appeals include Leonard E. Kasecamp from Juvenile Court and Eugene Oldaker who appealed a six-month jail sentence imposed in Trial Magistrate Court. Also scheduled are appeals by Marshall J. Alexander for violation of parole and Mervin H. Kyle on three counts of petty larceny.

Two previous appeal cases which were set today have been dismissed by the defendants. These appeals were dropped by Donald R. Boyer, who was fined $25 on a motor vehicle charge, and Charles E. Whelstone, who was sentenced to 30 days on a motor vehicle charge.

Two other criminal appeal cases set today have been postponed until a later date. These cases involved Carmen L. Bishop and Glenn M. Sugars. Both were found guilty of motor vehicle charges.

Man Injured In Accident On Route 40

A 28-year-old Flintstone motorist was hospitalized after he was thrown from his car in a spectacular accident Saturday night just east of here on U. S. Route 40.

Harold Eugene Bender, who was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, is reported in "satisfactory" condition. He suffered multiple lacerations of his head and neck.

State Police said Bender was traveling at an apparent high rate of speed when the accident occurred at 11:45 p.m.

While he was driving east on Route 40 about two-tenths of a mile east of Cumberland, the auto went out of control and careened off the side of the highway.

Tfc. T. E. Ruppert investigated the accident.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's car repair program at Keyser, W. Va., DuBois, Pa., and Chillicothe, Ohio, is featured in the April issue of the company's magazine.

Individual pictures of a blacksmith and carmen including Clarence W. Sears, general car foreman at Keyser, are included in the feature article.

The article points out that about 117 reconditioned freight cars per work day are now being turned out by repairmen at Keyser and DuBois.

By March 15, the car program, begun early this year, had completed the reconditioning of 4,776 cars, despite the interruptions caused by the snowstorms and unusually cold weather. Seventeen units of 45 men each or a total of 766 men, are now engaged in the repair program.
